NEW DEAL IN CONFUSION

High Tide, Ground Swells Flood Newport Beach Streets

TRAFFIC, CAR SERVICE IS TIED UP

Higher Tide Scheduled For 6 Tonight, With Peak Due Friday

Seven blocks at Newport Beach were flooded with a foot of water yesterday evening as high tides and large ground swells washed over a 1000-foot strip of low beach between Tenth and Seventeenth streets, tying up traffic and street car service for more than two hours.

Water hub deep flowed along Central avenue and adjacent streets, finally emptying into the bay. Traffic was rerouted by Bay avenue. Pacific Electric officials pressed busses into service when the salt water soaked the motors of one of their cars.

Basements and first floors in several homes were drenched. Little property damage was reported.

Two steam shovels were rushed to the beach this morning and have been fortifying the ocean front with a huge dyke of sand, in an effort to prevent a recurrence of yesterday's happenings.

High Tide Tonight

Tonight at 6 o'clock an even higher tide is scheduled. Yesterday's maximum was five feet, six inches at 5:30 p. m. Today it will be six feet at 6 p. m. It increases daily until the highest water of this period is reached at 8 p. m. Friday, when it will be a six foot, five inch rise.

Anticipating yesterday's high tide, most home owners had prepared for it and removed property which otherwise might have been damaged by the water.

BULLETINS

(By The Associated Press)

FOUR DIE IN CRASH

FRENO—Four men, including a newsreel man, were killed today when a United States army bombing plane crashed in Sequoia National park during maneuvers of Hamilton Field squadron.

PUSH PATMAN BILL

WASHINGTON—Patman bill leaders in congress decided today to go forward with their drive for cash payment of the bonus at this session and to sacrifice the inflationary provisions of their bill if necessary.

LOBBY BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON—The senate today passed the Black "lobbyist" bill requiring registration of all persons receiving pay for seeking to influence legislation or to influence business before the departments. The measure goes to the house.

FRIDAY NOT COUNTY DAY

Fair Date to be Fixed Tonight

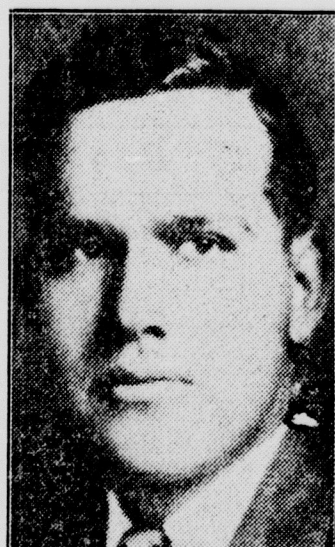

Misunderstanding has arisen over Orange County day at the San Diego fair. Many are under the impression that Friday is Orange County day. This, it was pointed out today, is erroneous. Friday is school day. Orange County day will be fixed tonight at a meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce.

"The exposition management has asked us to fix a date late in June," said V. D. Johnson, publicity director for Orange county this afternoon. "At that time there will be attractions of special interest to Orange county people. While Friday is school day, the fair will not be in the shape it will be later."

Orange County day will have as its main attraction the concert of the Cantando club, sponsored by Santa Ana Journal. The first of a series of special rehearsals was held last night and endless enthusiasm was expressed over the forthcoming event. The Journal is paying all expenses of the club's journey to the exposition city as a contribution to Orange county's representation at the fair.

HOW HIGH COURT RULINGS ARE INTERPRETED HERE

Many Industries Plan in County to Continue on Code Basis

By ROCH BRADSHAW

The code is dead. Long live the code!

Many Orange county industries operating under National Recovery act codes, which yesterday were declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, were planning today to make valiant efforts to continue operation on a code basis through co-operation and voluntary compliance.

At the same time leaders in these industries were keeping a close watch on Sacramento and Washington in the belief that the state legislature or congress will enact new laws which will eliminate the objectionable features of the old ones and enable industry to (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

HUGE BUDGET CUT NEEDED

SACRAMENTO, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—A schedule revealing the extent of reductions necessary to bring the $399,000,000 Merriam budget with the statutory 5 per cent limitation upon increases was given to the assembly today by Chairman Cottrell, of the ways and means committee.

Cottrell's summary showed that $10,701,263 would have to be lopped off estimated expenditures of $55,019,205.

Four Aspects of Farm Mortgage Situation Hold Limelight

By ROCH BRADSHAW

Four aspects of the farm mortgage situation were in the limelight today as a result of the supreme court's knockout blow to the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium bill.

A cross-section of opinion here revealed the belief that the position of the debtor has been weakened, while that of the creditor has been strengthened.

At the same time a greater feeling of confidence is expected to result among loaning individuals and agencies who have felt hesitant in the past because of uncertainty regarding their security. Leaders here expect congress to enact new legislation which will be constitutional and at the same time give creditors a better deal than they had under the Frazier-Lemke bill.

Finally, because of improved conditions, it was pointed out in some quarters that farmers should be able to meet their obligations under the new conditions, if credit (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

OIL PRORATE IS IGNORED

LOS ANGELES, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—Independent crude oil producers at Playa Del Rey and Santa Fe Springs today turned their wells wide open, with the explanation they intended to produce as much cheap oil as possible.

Explaining that they held the Federal Oil administration to be no longer with authority to act, the operators said they would ignore proration.

RANSOM FOR KIDNAPERS IS READY

Weyerhaeusers Insert Advertisement in Seattle Paper

TACOMA, Wash., Tuesday, May 28. (P)—"We are ready, Percy Minnie."

Inserting those five words in a new advertisement in the "personals" of a Seattle newspaper today, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., indicated they have $200,000 ready to ransom their kidnapped nine-year old son George.

The message, it was noted, was the exact wording which the kidnapers specified in their ransom note delivered the distracted parents by special delivery letter Friday night, six hours after George disappeared.

Sunday the Weyerhaeusers had (Please turn to Page 2, Column 2)

MUSEUM TO BE OPENED

Action taken by the city council last night in authorizing appointment of a committee by Mayor Fred C. Rowland to secure the construction of exhibition cases through the help of State Emergency Relief association workers and funds, indicated today that the B. M. Bowers Memorial Museum will be opened within a few weeks.

While no vote has been taken upon the matter, councilmen have agreed among themselves that provision for opening the museum will be made in the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Steps toward opening the museum have been urged by The Journal.

It is expected that a conference will be held within a few days between members of the museum board and representatives of the council to make an estimate as to the amount that should be set aside in the budget for operation and maintenance of the museum. This meeting may be delayed until after next Monday, at which time the council will make its appointments for the museum board, the library board, the forestry board, and the planning commission.

The committee appointed last night consists of Councilman William Penn, City Auditor Lloyd Banks and T. E. Stephenson, chairman of the museum board. Mr. Stephenson said today he felt the action taken last night was a definite step toward opening the museum.

JIM FARLEY REPORTED READY TO QUIT JOB

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
Authors of Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 28.—It now seems almost certain that big, bald, bland Jim Farley will step out of his job as postmaster general very soon after congress adjourns.

There are several reasons for this. One is that Jim is spending considerably more than his cabinet salary. And although some people around Jim may have made money, he himself is not a wealthy man. Another reason is the necessity to trim political fences in preparation for the 1936 campaign. As continuing chairman of the democratic national committee, Jim will give all his time to this.

Then there is the very important reason that Jim has become something of a political liability in the New Deal cabinet. Resentment against him is considerable in almost every part of the country. A lot of people think there is real

14 SEEK TO HANDLE OWN DEFENSE

Girl Suing Group For Loss of Eye Due to Thrown Tomato

Because Superior Judge H. G. Ames did not concur in the opinion of 14 Fullerton high school and junior college students that they were competent to handle their own defense in a $20,400 damage suit, he postponed hearing of the case until tomorrow and advised the boys to engage counsel.

The 14 youths, along with 11 other college and high school students, have been named defendants in a damage action brought by Genevieve L. Johnston, niece of Leo Porter, well known Fullerton man, who alleged that a tomato thrown by one of the 25 defendants broke the windshield of a car in which she was riding, resulting in the loss of her left eye.

Attorney Kaiser, for the law firm of Hunsacker, Moore and Longcroft, Long Beach, announced in court this morning that 14 of the youths had dispensed of his services, saying they felt able to conduct their own case. Sam Miller, spokesman for Arvard Smith, Kenneth Smith, Dick Nelson, Max Sherwood, Lloyd Sherwood, Felix Saabbe, Odell Whitfield, Frank Gleason, Joseph Bastanchury, James Esmay, Thomas Berkeley, Jim Jewett, William Johnson and himself, informed the court that they felt able to handle their own defense.

Judge Ames was of a different opinion, and informed them that they were faced with two able attorneys James L. Davis and George Holden, appearing for the plaintiff, and that they should engage counsel. (Please turn to Page 2, Column 7)

YOUNG MEN HELP VERN

Vern Carpenter, Santa Ana's 24-year old invalid, was given another splendid "lift" today, thanks to a group of young fellows who belong to the Orange County Motorcycle club.

The cyclists, whose entire membership numbers only 28, expressed their desire to see Vern provided with a wheelchair by sending a $10.25 donation to The Journal today. They appropriated $5 from their meager treasury, and raised the other $5.25 through voluntary offerings.

WHAT THE U. S. IS DOING IN NRA CODE CRISIS

Re-Study of Big Bills Ordered

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—A complete re-study of all big administration bills, to determine their constitutionality in view of yesterday's NRA decision, was ordered by congressional chiefs.

Green Calls Labor Heads Together

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, summoned the members of the federation executive council in Washington to a special meeting today to consider what the federation should do to preserve labor's gains under NRA.

Re-Writing of AAA Ordered

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—A complete re-writing of the AAA amendments to conform to the supreme court decision on NRA was decided today by senate and house leaders and Secretary Wallace.

Business Men Urged to Follow Codes

NEW YORK, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—An appeal for the preservation of wages and hours established under NRA, Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, today urged business men to uphold the levels of the codes. "I call upon all employers of labor who are members of the chamber and its constituent organizations," Sibley urged, "to make no immediate changes in hour or wage schedules."

Auto Dealers to Follow Former Code

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—F. W. A. Vesper, president of the National Automobile Dealers' association, today announced that organization would continue to operate under conditions of its NRA code, despite the ruling of the United States supreme court in outlawing code requirements of the national recovery act.

ONE KILLED AS AUTO UPSETS NEAR BEACH

Sonny H. Del Rosario, 22, of 833 South Grand, Los Angeles, met instant death at 3 a. m. today, when the car in which he was riding turned over on the Coast Highway one and one-half miles east of Huntington Beach.

Young Del Rosario was riding in the rumble seat of a light roadster driven by Mike De Jesus, employee of a cafe in Laguna Beach. De Jesus, accompanied by Claude Bertumen and Felix Taganas, both employees of another cafe in Laguna, left the beach town earlier in the evening for Los Angeles to offer Del Rosario a job in a Laguna cafe. The four men were on their way back to Laguna when the accident occurred.

De Jesus told Coroner Earl Abbey today that he drove the car off the road into the sand to avoid a collision with a bus, and in attempting to get it back on the highway, the machine turned over. All four passengers were thrown out, Del Rosario being crushed under the car.

Bertumen was taken to the Orange county hospital where it was reported he has possible fractured ribs.

He said under a proposed lease agreement now being sought at Sacramento, the state would be paid a 20 percent royalty, the county and the city of Huntington Beach 1 1/2 percent each.

HEAVY SELLING HITS MARKET

NEW YORK, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—Despite Wall Street's efforts to put a long range bullish interpretation on the supreme court's NRA decision, intermittent flurries of heavy selling engulfed the stock market today.

By midafternoon, many issues were off $1 to $3 a share and a few were down $3 to $6.

TIDELAND OIL LEASE ASKED

Attorney Salisbury, representing the Gilmore Exploration company, asked the board of supervisors this afternoon to approve an island lease proposition for exploiting the state's tideland oil at Huntington Beach.

He said under a proposed lease agreement now being sought at Sacramento, the state would be paid a 20 percent royalty, the county and the city of Huntington Beach 1 1/2 percent each.

OLDEST HORSE TO RETIRE!

40-Year Old Mount Inactive

Santa Ana's oldest horse is finally retiring.

For 40 years the big gray ornamental horse in the William F. Lutz store window has been in almost every parade in south Orange county, but this year he is staying home.

Most of his genuine horsehair mane was lost at the time Rudolph Valentino's picture, "The Sheik," was being advertised in Santa Ana. His tail is thinning with age. Still, the veteran animal is more than handsome in the eyes of hundreds of children who visit the shop and thrill at being "put up" on him.

LEADERS ASK BUSINESS TO KEEP CODES

Enforcement Abandoned By Administration; Meetings Called

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 28. (P)—Amid the confusion of a capital figuratively strewn with the wreckage of the New Deal's No. 1 experiment, the Roosevelt administration abandoned all attempts to enforce NRA, appealed to the business world to observe its rules voluntarily and then sought today in a series of hurried conferences to chart the future.

Voluntary code structure, under a revised Blue Eagle, was seriously considered by some administration leaders to replace the compulsory provisions of the recovery law. Presumably the pressure of public opinion would be relied on in part for success of such a system. The suggestion was advanced as various code authorities and business leaders appealed for business and industry to stand by code standards.

Beyond Donald R. Richberg's announcement after a conference with President Roosevelt that compulsory enforcement of the 731 codes, was in the discard and his plea to industry there was no immediate hint as to what the administration may do as a result of the unanimous supreme court decision scrapping NRA.

Bewildered Speculation Speculation ranged through a bewildering maze. Tentatively and without assurance, men on capitol hill and in the administration appeared to be canvassing the advisability of resorting to one or more of these steps:

1. A drive for new legislation, perhaps applying the principles of minimum wages, maximum hours, collective bargaining and the ban on child labor to purely interstate commerce.

2. An attempt to get states to pass supplementary laws, applying the principles to intrastate business.

3. An effort to amend the constitution to make NRA principles legal. This, most observers felt, would be a comparatively long-term matter, plunging the (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

DELIGHT, SORROW MARK LEADERS' COMMENT OVER NRA DEATH

RICHBERG SAYS ENFORCEMENT WILL CEASE

Johnson Is Confident Principles of Act Can Be Maintained

By the Associated Press
Delight and sorrow mingled in comments on the supreme court decision that toppled NRA's code structure.

Donald R. Richberg, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery board—"All methods of compulsory enforcement of the codes will be immediately suspended."

General Hugh S. Johnson—"I still believe it is possible to write a constitutional act preserving the principles of NRA."

Senator Glass (D., Va.)—"I have always been opposed to any such exercise of tyranny as was practiced under the act."

Senator Borah (R., Ida.)—"I would say the question of intra-state commerce being eliminated from control by congress is pretty well settled."

Senator Harrison (D., Miss.), chairman of the senate finance committee handling NRA legislation—"I think it is possible to repair the damage at this session."

Senator Long (D., La.)—"That's what I said on the floor of the senate the night they passed it."

Clarence Darrow, Chicago attorney who headed the critical NRA review board—"The New Deal is gone."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor—"I am greatly disappointed."

Alvan MacCauley, president of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association—"I do not think it will change the attitude of automobile manufacturers toward the business, or their employees, or the theory of minimum wages and maximum hours."

Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia—"Private industry will immediately take on new life and hasten back recovery."

advertised in the specified paper a similar message of slightly different context—"Ready to come Monday, Percy Minnie." A second "personal" also appearing Sunday urged the kidnapers to hurry and relieve Mrs. Weyerhaeuser's anguish.

There was no sign of unusual activity at the Weyerhaeuser house today, although it was illuminated upstairs until after 1 o'clock this morning and a Seattle automobile was parked in front until that hour, when a man entered and drove away.

Reports were current at police headquarters that a second ransom note had been delivered to the family.

In one of the few partially revealed moves in the hunt for the gang that demanded $200,000 ransom for the return of the lumber fortune heir, two Tacoma detectives hurried to Vancouver, B. C.

MORE ABOUT NRA RULING

whole NRA controversy into the 1936 campaign.

4. An attempt to obtain legislation enforcing some NRA principles by means of the government's taxing power.

5. An invitation to industry to join in voluntary agreements with the government to observe certain practices.

6. A move to get congress to declare an emergency, with a grant of temporary authority to the president to govern industry and labor relations during an interim adjustment. This was only mentioned tentatively, and there was no sign that the president had decided on any definite steps.

While observers speculated on the possibility that President Roosevelt might make a radio address to the nation soon, the question of what industry will do now that NRA is virtually just another scrap of paper was uppermost.

New Deal Giving Thought

That the New Deal is giving thought to it was shown in the statement Richberg issued last night after conferring with President Roosevelt, Attorney General Cummings and Solicitor General Stanley Reed on the court's decision, which was handed down in the A. L. A. Schechter live poultry case.

"It would be most harmful to the general welfare," said the NRA head, "if unfair competitive practices, universally recognized as such, were to be revived, and if the fair standards affecting labor were to be disregarded."

"Therefore, pending the determination of this question (of what shall be done), I hope that all employers heretofore operating under approved codes and all their employees will cooperate in maintaining those standards of fair competition in commercial and labor relations which have been written into codes with practically universal sanction, and which represent a united effort to eliminate dishonest, fraudulent trade practices and unfair competition in overworking and underpaying labor."

Enforcement Suspended
He said the decision "makes all codes of fair competition unenforceable as a matter of law; and in deference to that ruling, all methods of compulsory enforcement of the codes will be immediately suspended."

Hugh Johnson, the man who led in NRA's first gigantic drive, pictured the New Deal as in "black confusion at this moment," but insisted the principles could be written into a new law.

But any effort to do that had to reckon with such deadly enemies of the Blue Eagle as Senator Borah (R., Ida.), who said, "The Constitution has been saved," and Senator King (D., Utah), who uttered a fervent "Thank God for the supreme court."

Although the high court's decision apparently virtually abolished federal regulation of the liquor business, an appeal was made to distillers for continued compliance with major code provisions pending legal studies.

Chairman Walsh (D., Miss.), of the senate labor committee believed that the Wagner Labor Relations bill, now going through congress with the blessing of the administration, would have to be narrowed drastically.

Federal Regulation Banned
Senator Borah, a student of the constitution, held that the high court decision definitely banned federal attempts to regulate interstate business. The high court said that congress may not reach into a community to regulate wages and hours in a business which only indirectly affects interstate commerce.

"We are of the opinion," said the court, "that the attempt through the provisions of the code to fix the hours and wages of employees of defendants in their intrastate business was not a valid exercise of federal power."

The other salient point in the decision was the ruling that congress illegally delegated its powers to the president in authorizing him to approve and promulgate codes.

MORE ABOUT LOCAL NRA

carry on under a legalized code authority.

Code authorities today were still more or less at sea as to their course for the future. However, they were co-operating in attempts to keep voluntary associations operating to accomplish the same purpose as the codes have achieved.

May Be Stimulant

At the same time business men are inclined to view the decision as a stimulant to bringing capital out of hiding. A. C. Hasenjaeger, manager of the Commercial National bank, pointed out that the decision will provide a new and firmer foundation for business because the constitution has been upheld.

J. C. Buckbee of Los Angeles, one of the code authorities for the sand and gravel business, expressed similar views. He said that those with capital had been hesitant about investment because of uncertainty, and the possibility facing them that further legislation might be enacted, not in accord with the constitution.

Mr. Buckbee also pointed out that the decision will be a blow to the American Federation of Labor because it takes away leverage it has been able to use under the code system.

Saw "Handwriting"
He said that the sand and gravel industry had seen "the handwriting on the wall" and in the past few months had re-established voluntary associations which will carry on despite the decision, to maintain fair trade practices. Mr. Buckbee said also that he expects state legislation in the near future to take the place of the national codes. The objectionable feature of the NRA, he said, was that it took away states' rights.

R. S. Tatum, of Los Angeles, code authority in this district for the automobile dealers, said he expects state legislation to take the place of the national act. Such laws, he said, probably would relate only to fair trade practices and set up no schedules for wages. They would be designed for specific California conditions and would not be so unwieldy as the national codes, he anticipated.

Printers of Orange county have their county association, which was in operation before the codes were established, and they will continue to function under voluntary regulations in the opinion of A. G. Flagg, president of the organization.

Foresees New Laws
Edward S. Pierce, of Los Angeles, code authority for the printing industry in this district, said there is no doubt that the codes are dead, but he looks forward to national legislation, supplemented by state laws, which will re-establish codes on a constitutional basis.

General contractors are hoping to carry on under voluntary associations, according to F. J. Connolly of Los Angeles, code authority. He said that in Southern California he expects contractors to proceed as though the decision had not been made, in the belief that national or state laws will be enacted to fill the breach. There are several bills in the state senate judiciary committee now, he said, which have been held up pending the decision of yesterday.

Cal Gilbert of Santa Ana, chairman of the compliance committee for the electrical industry in the Orange county district, said that in most electrical industries he believed attempts were being launched at once to devise voluntary substitutes for the codes. Mr. Gilbert expressed the belief that the codes have been a good thing for all business because they have helped to eliminate "bid chiseling" and have standardized wages.

Friday, James and Brockett had their bail reduced from $5000 to $1000 each, and the $5000 bail under which Miss Smith obtained her release shortly after the raid on May 20, was continued.

Holding the five defendants to answer on the additional charge of pool-selling, a violation of the state gaming act, was bitterly opposed by O. A. Jacobs, attorney for Brockett and James, and Attorney Smith.

Granting the motion of District Attorney Kaufman to hold the defendants on two counts instead of one, Justice of the Peace Morrison pointed out that papers seized in the raid revealed that at the time police entered the establishment 150 names had been entered on "chain" cards and there were 320 slips bearing names that had not yet been entered. With these 470 names there was confiscated but $260.51, he remarked, stating that other money seized was in envelopes ready for mailing to "clients."

He pointed out that a large portion of the money placed in envelopes for mailing was addressed to persons in Los Angeles, Hollywood, Burbank and Glendale with no record of these persons having paid any amount to the club. He pointed out that with 470 persons expecting repayment and with but $260.15 to make this payment, it was evident that "some one was certain to be disappointed."

MORE ABOUT FARM RULING

tors continue to cooperate in working out debt adjustments.

The Frazier-Lemke bill provided that, if mortgage debtor and creditor were unable to work out a settlement, the debtor could obtain a five-year moratorium, provided he paid certain stipulated sums. With the moratorium as a weapon or threat, the debtor was in a commanding position when he dealt with the creditor.

A cross-section of legal opinion here indicates that where settlements have been worked out between the two, with or without assistance of the conciliation commissioner, these settlements will continue in effect; for they were not affected one way or the other by the Frazier-Lemke bill, except as it served as a threat hanging over the creditor.

However, where a settlement was not reached and the debtor did not invoke the moratorium privilege, the story is different. Attorney Charles D. Swanner expressed the belief that such proceedings under the Frazier-Lemke bill have been invalidated by the supreme court decision, and that the terms of the original mortgage agreement now will apply, just as though the Frazier-Lemke bill never had been passed.

Calls It Partisan
Attorney L. A. West pointed out that where such matters were adjudicated in court under the Frazier-Lemke bill, and where the creditors objected and appealed to higher courts, the position of the mortgage holder will be upheld; and action of lower courts in sustaining the debtor will undoubtedly be reversed.

Attorney M. B. Wellington said that the Frazier-Lemke bill was partisan legislation, which aided the debtor at the expense of the creditor. While its purpose was good, it went to extremes, he explained, and said he anticipates passage of an act more fair to both debtor and creditor. Many lenders, he said, were old people whose life savings had been invested in mortgages; and when the moratorium was invoked, such people were left with their entire income practically wiped out. The act in effect destroyed security for loans and took away the chance of reasonable income, and it was this destruction of security to which the court objected, he explained.

Roland D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Farm bureau, expressed an interest in this phase of the situation. He said he believed many citrus growers in the same position referred to by Mr. Wellington would be able to pay out if they are not foreclosed on immediately. The necessity of re-advertising by the creditor will give many debtors time to meet their obligations, he believes.

Lenders Optimistic
Lenders are inclined to view the court decision with optimism, not only because their position is strengthened, but also because they will have renewed confidence in making loans. A. C. Hasenjaeger, manager of the Commercial National bank, said the Frazier-Lemke bill has hurt borrowers as much as lenders because both banks and individuals have hesitated to make loans as long as their confidence in the future was undermined by uncertainty as to their security. This hesitancy will be removed by the court decision, he believes.

J. E. Liebig, of the Interstate Finance company, expressed similar views, pointing out that lenders will now be more confident when they extend credit, the security will be sound and there will be a good chance to collect at maturity of the loans.

J. J. Dwyer, conciliation commissioner for Orange county, who

PRESIDENT RAISES HOME LOAN FUND

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 28. (AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the bill increasing the capitalization of the Home Owners' Loan corporation by $1,750,000,000, thus putting into motion the machinery making it possible for the agency to resume receiving applications for loans from distressed home owners.

ants in the suit were: John Doe Smith, Lawrence Meyers, Bob Fahs, Gordon Jahr, Tom Payne, Joe Doe Sherwood, Bob Forester, Vincent Jernigan and Wilford Snyder.

The tomato throwing that allegedly resulted in the loss of Miss Johnston's eye occurred the evening of October 31, 1933, and was part of a pre-football game rally.

R. N. A. CAMP HAS DRILL TEAM EXHIBIT

Demonstrations were exemplified by the Magnolia camp, R. N. A., drill team at the meeting of the organization held last night in the K. of P. hall. Charles Henderson led the contingent.

A covered-dish supper was served at 6:30, and dancing followed the business meeting. Mrs. Lenora Farmer, oracle, presided.

Contrary to custom, the annual finale meeting of the district will be held in the K. of P. hall here instead of one of the Long Beach parks, June 10. Each of the camps will present part of the entertainment, and will bring cakes and sandwiches for its own members. Mrs. Lenora B. Fletcher, district deputy from Long Beach, will preside.

About Folks

A group of Santa Ana men were limping today as a result of an ocean fishing trip Sunday in which their boat turned over off Dana Point. The group, including Ray Dixon, Morris Reed and Van Pomeroy, started for San Clemente in a nine-foot craft, but encountered engine trouble and drifted into the breakers. They were thrown into the water and for two hours struggled to keep the boat off the rocks. In the meantime their feet were cut painfully. After being rescued by fishermen, they got the engine to working and started back to Newport, but ran out of gas. They were towed into port.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Dixon of 2600 West First street returned this week from a business trip to Milford, Utah.

Mrs. Charles McMahon, president of Edison P. T. A., left today for San Diego to spend three days attending the state convention of P. T. A's. Mr. Mahon and his children will motor to San Diego the last of the week and bring her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, 910 South Parton street, motored to Phoenix, Ariz., over the weekend and visited Mr. Brown's mother, Mrs. H. L. Sebastian. They report exceedingly hot weather in Phoenix.

Mrs. F. E. Coulter of 26 South Ross street was in Los Angeles today attending a luncheon meeting of the Los Angeles County Medical Association auxiliary. Mrs. Coulter is a past state president of the auxiliary.

Mrs. C. A. Fienne, Miss Esther Kranke, Miss Alice Fienne, Bernard Cook and Edward Bergemann of Orange, motored to Los Angeles Sunday afternoon to attend the second annual Walter League Talent Show of Southern California at Turnverein hall. Miss Fienne was a judge in several instrumental departments of the musical contest. Mrs. Fienne accompanied Bernard Cook, violinist.

Miss Margaret Dean and Mrs. L. H. Bradshaw of Orange were Laguna Beach visitors on Sunday, when they called on Miss Gertrude Barnum, formerly of Hull House, Chicago. Miss Barnum was a close personal friend of the late Jane Addams, social worker, with whom she lived and was associated for years. At the invitation of Secretary of Labor Perkins, Miss Barnum went to San Francisco for conferences over labor troubles at the time of Miss Perkins' visit to the Pacific coast some months ago. Miss Barnum is now spending the summer at her Laguna Beach home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walker, of Orange, were guests over the weekend at the home of Postmaster Alfonso Hamann of Balboa.

Mr. and Mrs. David Jerome, of 2323 Bush street, and their son, Donald, Jr., were guests Saturday and Sunday at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crenshaw at Laguna Beach.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Wade, of 2426 Heliotrope drive, returned yesterday from a three-day trip to Lake Arrowhead, where Dr. Wade indulged in his favorite sport, skiing.

Paul Tedford, well known Anaheim realtor, was in Santa Ana Monday conferring with business associates.

Don Nelson, with the J. C. Horton Furniture Co., is temporarily incapacitated as the result of a recent automobile accident at Seventeenth and Bolsa road, in which he sustained a wrenched back and badly bruised left arm.

Joe Steele and daughter, Naomi, were in Los Angeles Sunday to attend a baseball game.

Cal Ewing, of Anaheim, who is identified with the S.E.R.A. in the capacity of safety inspector, was at local headquarters Monday and visited at the offices of the Orange County Welfare division.

Mrs. Helen Anderson, Mrs. James L. Allen and Mrs. Noel A. Berry went to Long Beach this afternoon to attend the funeral services for Mrs. Lydia Hayes, formerly of Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. McMullen, 2418 Heliotrope drive, have arrived home from San Francisco, where they spent several days visiting friends.

Dr. U. G. Littell and Mrs. Littell of 635 North Parton street returned yesterday from a three-day visit with friends in Santa Paula.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nickey, of 518 Bush street, entertained a Sunday dinner guests Dr. Jack Congdon and Mrs. Congdon and their twin daughters, Jacqueline and Jeanne, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Olive Dooley of Omaha, Neb., who arrived last Saturday to spend the summer as a houseguest in the Nickey home.

Dr. Roy Horton and Mrs. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mun-selles, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coombs and Carl C. Cowles represented Santa Ana at a social affair with which Mrs. J. Boosey of Los Angeles entertained the Southern California Collectors' club Saturday evening in her home. Mrs. Boosey has dressed in correct periods 300 dolls in her doll collection, which cover dolls of the past 150 years.

C. V. Bell, of Long Beach, was in Santa Ana this forenoon conducting business with parties associated with him in Huntington Beach oil properties. Mr. Bell is planning on making a trip to Kansas to look after land investments.

Attorney Ray Overacker of Huntington Beach, was in Santa Ana last evening conferring with interested parties regarding oil leases.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Allen, of 1920 Greenleaf street, will leave from Los Angeles harbor tomorrow for an extended trip to the Hawaiian islands. They are sailing on the S. S. Mariposa.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sundquist of 312 West Third street, leave tomorrow for a trip through the San Diego mountains and then to Yuma, Ariz. They expect to be gone several days.

YORBA LINDA CHAMBER STUDIES HIGH SCHOOL GYM BUILDING

NO ACTION FOR NEW PROJECT IS TAKEN

Recreation Body Will Continue Efforts on City Playground

YORBA LINDA, Tuesday, May 28.—Although possibility of construction of a combined gymnasium and auditorium on the school grounds here was discussed at a meeting of the chamber of commerce last night, no action was taken by the group, the opinion of members being that the recreation commission should continue with work on the community playground instead of switching to another project.

Floyd Lindsley, San Clemente school principal, told the chamber of work done with youth of that community through use of a gymnasium. He told how the school auditorium was converted for use of indoor athletics through slight changes, and urged a similar program for Yorba Linda.

Commission Agrees George Plumb, recreation commission head, told of plans of his group, and said that the commission was in agreement with Lindsley's suggestions. Cost of construction of an auditorium and gymnasium was discussed by several members, but no definite action was taken.

Progress in plans for a night ball league in Yorba Linda were announced, with three complete teams ready to play. Further reports on the proposed league will be made by committee members later, President C. E. Simmons said.

Girl Tumbling Act John J. Christopher, of Whittier, who will be a teacher in Yorba Linda school next year, presented a group of girls from three Whittier elementary schools in a tumbling act. The girls were Diana Trumbull, Betty Porter, Beverly Downing, Edith O'Neill, Marjorie Blackburn, Florence Barnore, Gloria Bowman, Joan Logue and Frankie Jean Austin.

Members of the chamber decided upon one meeting each month during the summer, to be held on the second Monday.

FORMER GUILD GROUP MEETS

ORANGE, Tuesday, May 28.—A number of former members of the disbanded Alice Lewis guild met yesterday at the home of Mrs. J. J. Vernon, Santa Ana, to reorganize the guild and form plans for a silver tea to be given June 7.

A letter from Mrs. Alice Lewis, missionary to Yeong Kong, China, who is home on furlough, was read. Mrs. Lewis was a classmate of Mrs. Donald Smiley, whose Loma Solana Terrace home will be the scene of the tea. Mrs. Lewis will return to China on July 29. S. S. General Pershing July 29, and to raise funds with which to buy some needed supplies for her, the guild has arranged an elaborate program for the silver tea. The hours will be from 2 to 5 p.m., and those wishing transportation should advise Mrs. Earl Hobbs, chairman of transportation.

The public is invited, and an opportunity will be given to view the gardens of the Smiley home. Hostesses will be Mrs. Smiley, Mrs. Vern Estes and Mrs. Alden Davis. Refreshments are in charge of Mrs. J. T. McInnis; program, Mrs. J. W. Powell; publicity, Mrs. J. W. Powell; transportation, Mrs. Earl Hobbs. Those present at the home of Mrs. Vernon, besides those named, were Mesdames E. C. Frevert, Ensley Campbell and Dale Griggs, the latter of Santa Ana.

ORANGE CLUB SURPRISE FOR BRIDE-TO-BE HOLDS MEET

ORANGE, Tuesday, May 28.—The Orange Business and Professional Women's club met at the Woman's club last night following a dinner at 6:30. The president, Mrs. Florence Donegan, presided, and reports were given from the state convention at San Francisco by Miss Eula Weaver and Mrs. Donegan. Miss Nell Pister was program chairman, presenting Frank Nuslein, who sang two groups of songs, accompanied by Miss Audrey Peterson.

It was reported that Mrs. Homer Wing, a member who has been ill in Sisters' hospital, Red Bluff, is recovering, and will be able to leave the hospital soon.

The garden section of the Woman's club held a potluck luncheon at the clubhouse today. Routine business was planned, with an informal social hour following.

PLAN FORMATION OF FULLERTON COUNCIL OF SERVICE CLUBS

FULLERTON, Tuesday, May 28.—A meeting of all civic organizations of Fullerton on June 4 at El Patio cafe to form an inter-club council for handling community activities was called yesterday by D. A. McGavran, secretary of the Fullerton 20-30 club. According to plans announced by McGavran, the council will consist of the presidents and secretaries of the 20-30 club, Kiwanis, Rotary, Business and Professional Women's, Ebells, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts council, Izaak Walton League, P. T. A. council, California Federation of Women's clubs, the Fullerton Ministerial association, the chamber of commerce and junior chamber of commerce.

Officials of the 20-30 club pointed out that similar organizations have been formed in many Southern cities.

RESIDENT OF NEAR ANAHEIM PASSES

ANAHEIM, Tuesday, May 28.—Frank C. Newell, 76, died Sunday at his home, La Jolla road near Anaheim, where he had been a resident for 12 years.

Surviving are a sister, Flora B. Newell, and a brother, Ernest C. Newell, both of whom live at the La Jolla road address. Funeral services will be held from McCauley-Sutters funeral parlors in Fullerton at 2 p. m. Wednesday with Rev. Graham C. Hunters officiating. Following services the body will be sent to Sagniauw, Mich., for burial.

DELEGATION OFF TO CONVENTION

TUSTIN, Tuesday, May 28.—With plans made to spend the week at the California Congress of Parents and Teachers' convention, a delegation left here yesterday for San Diego.

Those who went were Mrs. W. W. Tantlinger, president of Tustin High school Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. F. H. Greenwood and Mrs. James Willis Rice, of the high school, and Mrs. R. Korff, president of the Tustin grammar school.

250 AT TUSTIN CITY PICNIC

TUSTIN, Tuesday, May 28.—Approximately 250 persons attended the annual Tustin community picnic held at Irvine park Saturday with the Tustin Union High school and Grammar school Parent-Teacher associations as sponsors. Mrs. J. Henry Pankey, high school representative, and Mrs. William Kellams, of the grammar school, acted as general chairman for the affair.

At 1 o'clock the three grammar school buses, filled to capacity with picnickers, left the school for the park, returning children to their homes at 6 o'clock. The afternoon's program included 18 games and races, and was planned by the following teachers: Miss Mildred Staples, Mrs. Eleanor Palmer, George Gaylord, Raymond Dawson, Vincent Humeston, Robert Korff and Ernest Byrne.

The indoor baseball game for fathers and sons was won by the fathers, while the girls were victors in the mothers-and-daughters' game. The grammar school P. T. A. won the pennant this year after its annual indoor game, of which the high school have been victors, and held the pennant for the past two years.

Prizes, donated by Tustin merchants, were given by Mrs. William Kellams to the successful contestants.

Five o'clock dinner was served, and dancing was enjoyed in the pavilion from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR ANAHEIM MAN

ANAHEIM, Tuesday, May 28.—Funeral services were held at 2 p. m., today from the Higgenfeld funeral home for William Leslie Krepps, 31, who died at his home on Coffran avenue, Anaheim, Sunday. Rev. Arthur F. Ritchey, pastor of the Anaheim Church of Christ, Christian, officiated.

Surviving are his widow, Mabel Krepps, two daughters, Irma and Lucille; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Krepps; a brother, Frank of Northern California; and three sisters, Miss Iza Krepps of Phoenix, Mrs. Charles Phillips of Woodlake, Calif., and Mrs. James Leslie of Pasadena.

RESIDENT OF 50 YEARS PASSES

A resident of Santa Ana for 50 years, Mrs. Marilla Stevens, 74, died this morning at the Santa Ana Valley hospital after a week's illness.

Mrs. Stevens was the widow of the late George W. Stevens, who was prominent in Santa Ana civic life.

Surviving are Mrs. Lila Straw, Mrs. Georgia Brooks of Santa Ana, Mrs. Myrtle Davidson of Shafter, Calif., and Mrs. Grace Davidson of Lemoore, Calif., daughters, and Lloyd R. Stevens, Tatt, and Milo B. Stevens, Simi, sons.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday, from the Smith and Tuthill chapel, with burial in Fairhaven cemetery.

UTES TOMORROW FOR MRS. J. LEAKE

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from Smith and Tuthill chapel for Mrs. Jessie Leake, 72, for 24 years a resident at the Marcy ranch, where her husband, Albert, was formerly superintendent. She died yesterday, after an extended illness.

The Rev. C. A. Duncan of the First Presbyterian church in Tustin will officiate. Sally Lee Scales will sing.

Surviving are Miss Donna L. Leake, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Arthur Smith, on the Marcy ranch, and Mrs. Guy Hayes of Beverly Hills, daughters; and Albert, her husband.

ORANGE P-T. A. GROUP LEAVES FOR CONVENTION

ORANGE, Tuesday, May 28.—Two officers of the local P. T. A. left for the state convention at San Diego yesterday and nine others left today.

Mrs. Marion Flippin, council president, and Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim, fourth district publicity chairman, made the trip Monday. Other delegates are George Sherwood, superintendent of elementary schools; Miss Rachel Williams, music supervisor; Mrs. Glenn Reck, Mrs. L. L. Williams, Mrs. Lenora Kreuger, Mrs. V. H. Hupp, Mrs. Earl Wood and Mrs. Kenneth A. King.

The group prepared a stunt to give on the "stunt night" of the convention.

SCHOOL DAYS OF PAST RECALLED

Old-Time Classmates Meet at Buena Park

BUENA PARK, Tuesday, May 28.—A large attendance of visitors and old-time classmates congregated at the old Centralia schoolhouse Saturday evening. Souvenir photos of the first classes, groups in the school rooms and also the latest picture of the building were on view.

The former pupils, coming from many parts of the state, enjoyed the meeting with their sons and daughters, who are pupils at present. Tables in the playgrounds were used for the basket supper and it was late in the evening when farewell was said to the old school of their younger days.

A new building will be erected in time for the opening of school this fall. Mrs. Wilton Abplanalp and committee were present to welcome the guests.

LOCAL DELEGATES TO BE HOSTESSES AT N. D. G. W. MEET

Santa Ana delegates to the Native Daughters of Golden West convention in Sacramento June 17 will be hostesses to the southern district, it was announced at the meeting of the parlor held last night in the K. of C. hall. Mrs. Herbert Bray, newly elected president, will officiate.

Following the business session at which officers were nominated, a benefit card party was held. Prizes went to Mrs. Nellie Cline, Mrs. Olive Witt, Mrs. Rose Ford, and William Campbell. Mrs. Mattie Edwards won a quilt as a special award.

Honored guests of the evening were Mrs. Cline, grand trustee, from Grace parlor, Placencia, and Mrs. Lillian Zirkel, district deputy from Rudecinda parlor, San Pedro. Complimenting Mrs. D. W. Ellis on her birthday, a decorated cake and handkerchief shower were presented her.

A committee from the Thimble club, including Mrs. Edwards, Miss Gladys Edwards, and Mrs. Marguerite Mize, was in charge of the evening.

10 SANTA ANANS AT GARDEN GROVE W. R. C. MEETING

Ten Santa Anans attended the all-day meeting of Federation No. 1, Women's Relief Corps of the G. A. R., held yesterday in Garden Grove.

More than 125 delegates from various corps of the county were present. Visitors from Federations No. 3 and 5 also were there. Mrs. Clara Winn, federation president from Fullerton, officiated, and the Rev. Grover Austin, pastor of the Garden Grove Methodist church, gave the day's address. Welcome was extended the group by Mrs. Mary Clark, president of the Garden Grove corps, and by Henry Yockey, president of the chamber of commerce.

By a district vote, Miss Alpha Merrifield, adopted army nurse, was adopted by the district. Present from Sedgwick corps were Mesdames Estelle Gray, Geraldine Beall, Elizabeth Birkhead, Lydia Fipps, Nannie Myers, Mollie Smith, Beatrice Hossler, Edythe Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Millen.

$55,750 DAMAGE SUIT OUSTED AGAIN

For the second time the $55,750 damage suit of Walter H. Williams, jr., against Roy F. Abshier was thrown out of court late yesterday on a motion of non-suit.

The first time the case was tried Superior Judge H. G. Ames granted a non-suit motion by Stanley Reinhaus, attorney for Abshier. Yesterday the motion was granted by Presiding Judge James L. Allen on the grounds the plaintiff had failed to show negligence in operation of Abshier's car.

Williams was attempting to recover for damages for injuries received when the motorcycle on which he was riding as a passenger collided with a car driven by Abshier. Barbara Williams, who was operating the motorcycle, died from injuries received in the crash, which occurred August 12, 1932, in Brea.

FAIR VISITORS MAY BE INVITED HERE

Visitors at the San Diego exposition may be invited to tour Orange county packing houses on their way through this section, if plans discussed at a meeting of chamber of commerce secretaries yesterday afternoon in the chamber offices here materialize.

According to V. D. Johnson, county publicity director in charge of the Orange county exhibit at the world's fair, the group yesterday discussed the possibility of issuing tickets at the fair extending to visitors the privilege of inspecting citrus packing houses in Orange county. Packing houses will be contacted before any decision is reached in the matter.

It was also decided to change a map in the exhibit so that it will show all towns of the county instead of only the coast section, Mr. Johnson said.

PICK CANDIDATE TOMORROW FOR SALINAS RODEO

Selection of a candidate to represent Santa Ana in the California Outdoor Girl contest to be held in connection with the California Rodeo and Horse fair in Salinas July 18 will be made tomorrow at the Loper Riding academy on Newport road.

Contestants from here are Josephine Butler, Geraldine Gilbert, Jeanette Klatt, Margaret Munro and Barbara Rowland. Judges will be Mrs. Maydelle McFadden, Mrs. A. S. Ralph, and Mrs. Sam Jernigan.

Set up to promote healthful outdoor activity among girls of high school age and to encourage interest in horsemanship, the contest is being staged throughout the state.

The winner in the California competition with her mother will be given a trip to the Hawaiian Islands.

FARM LOAN GROUP TO AID FEDERAL LAND BANK HERE

As a result of a conference yesterday afternoon in the offices of C. A. Palmer, manager of the Orange County National Farm Loan association, it was agreed that the organization will service loans of the Federal Land bank and land bank commissioner in Orange county, according to Mr. Palmer. R. M. Webster and S. F. Evans, of the Federal Land Bank at Oakland, requested Mr. Palmer to handle this work, which includes matters of delinquent interest, taxes, water bills and similar business.

PRODUCTION COST FOR LEMONS TOLD

Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg today made public results of the 1934 cost of production studies for lemon orchards in Orange county. Six orchards in the most profitable group had an average yield of 224.2 cwt. per acre, while the lower group had an average of 121.9 cwt.

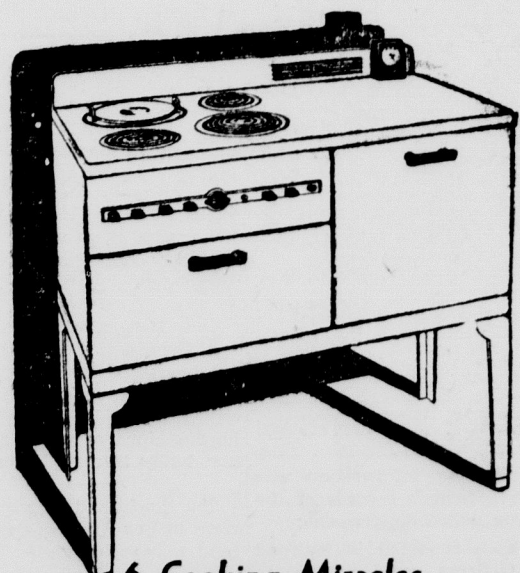

According to Mr. Wahlberg, the studies show that in the past cultivation has been carried on more extensively than necessary, and irrigation has been overdone in many cases also.

BOARD MEETS TONIGHT

A temporary board of directors for an Orange county cooperative vegetable association will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the farm bureau offices here. The group will draft articles of incorporation, a marketing agreement and membership agreement, as well as make plans for carrying on the organization.

STARS BATTLE STRONG VALENCIAS TONIGHT

Column Left!

By FRANK ROGERS

Thumbing the pages: Seldom have critics and sport scribes (they're not the same) been so unanimous in their choice as they are over tonight's McLarnin-Ross battle. You can't find more than half a dozen from ocean to ocean who think the baby-faced Irish has a chance.

Bill Cole's Santa Ana Stars seem definitely on their way to a championship... and mostly because the boys play smart baseball... use brains to supplant power. If they get over the Anaheim Valencias tonight all you loyal fans can breathe a bit easier, though.

Len Koenicke, star Brooklyn outfielder, made only two errors all last season to set a new National league outfielding record of .994. Wait, though, the first month of this season he was charged with four mistakes. His 1934 mark bettered the .993 of Pat Duncan and Wally Berger.

Four drivers who have seen the checkered flag flutter before them hope to repeat in the Indianapolis classic Thursday. Pete De Paolo, who won in 1925, Louis Meyer, a two-time—1928 and 1933—winner, Fred Frame, 1932 champion and Wild Bill Cummings, last year's champion, are out after the 1935 title.

Burleigh Grimes, listed among big league chuggers as having won 13 consecutive games for the New York Giants in 1917, had a losing streak of exactly the same number of games just ten years later while working for the Pirates.

Dog racing will make its second appearance here Thursday and in line with that subject some observation anent our recent crack about the sport is in line.

We had wondered why fans should be interested in the game as a mere spectacle—that is, sans wagering, betting or guessing for a monetary consideration.

Upwards of 1000 folks chose to show they were interested in the sport Sunday when they went to the local track at the old fair (Please turn to Page 10, Col. 6)

Ross Favorite Over McLarnin Tonight

FAMED 'JINX' IS PURSUING CHAMPION

Chicago Challenger Is 7 to 5 Choice Over Irish 'Killer'

By ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sport Editor
NEW YORK, Tuesday, May 28. (AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, the one-time "killer" among the ring's little fellows not only faces a whirlwind blast of leather tonight as he meets the challenge of Chicago's Barney Ross at the Polo grounds but the jinx that for years has pursued welterweight boxing champions.

Jimmy may produce sufficient punch to offset the danger of both factors over the 15-round route but the pre-battle odds seem stacked against him.

Jinx Spills McLarnin

No 147-pound king has survived his first title defense in years. The jinx which has been particularly potent in the Madison Square garden bowl spilled McLarnin a year ago in his first defense of the championship he won by a knockout from young Corbett III.

Ross, the successor, dropped a close decision to McLarnin three months later in the same arena, where it looked as though he had whipped the hoodoo as well as the Irishman.

They're right back where they started now, but not even last-minute reports of McLarnin's weight, well inside of the class limit, sufficed to alter the general view among experts that the champion is due for a licking.

Ross became the seven to five choice overnight to regain the title heights and settle the argument with "Jarring Jim."

19 FEET UP! CAN OWENS DO IT?

By FRITZ HOWELL

Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Tuesday, May 28. (AP)—Prof. James E. Boyd of Ohio State toyed with his slide rule today, dipped into a bit of higher mathematics, and came up with the opinion that Jesse Owens is hiding a more astounding record than any he broke in the Big Ten meet last Saturday.

The dusky Clevelander, Professor Boyd said—and then produced a flock of figures to prove his point—can jump up for 19 feet. Theoretically Owens can do it, the professor opined, but he doesn't believe he will.

Here Are Figures

The high spots of the "figuring" by Professor Boyd went something like this:

Jesse weighs 164 pounds, and he can broadjump 26 feet, 8 1/4 inches. His takeoff run is 107 feet. He can run the 100 yards with a flying start in 8.4 seconds.

As he hits the takeoff board, therefore, he has built up a resultant velocity of 35 feet per second, and at an angle of 0.3 degrees, he will go up for .328 seconds. To reach the peak of the broad jump and return to earth, he will require .658 seconds, during which he will have traveled 21.9 feet horizontally.

Not only that, but his point of gravity rises 1.72 feet.

Since Jesse takes off vertically and lands horizontally, the professor believes his point of gravity will be 1.5 feet lower at the finish than at the start. Adding the high and low points of gravity, Professor Boyd proves that Jesse falls 3.22 feet from the high point of his leap to the pit.

"Those figures are the basis of the fact that Owens, in running down the 107-foot runway, at the speed he attains, builds up a kinetic energy of 2,122 foot-pounds," the professor said.

Then, by dividing the foot-pounds of kinetic energy by Jesse's weight, 164 pounds, comes the magic answer of "19," which is the number of feet the professor says Jesse can jump straight up.

FAVOR 1935 ELEVEN OVER GRADUATES IN H. S. FOOTBALL

The 1935 eleven to whip the 1934 team by two touchdowns!

That was the latest prediction down at Poly field today, as Bill Foot's 1935 varsity and Reece Greene's 1934 gridders began final preparations for Santa Ana high school's "this year-last year" football conflict at the bowl tomorrow night.

The graduates will be without the services of Bill Hawkins, giant halfback who will remain in training for track. Hawkins plans to compete in the A. A. U. high hurdles at the San Diego Exposition along with Capt. Lucian Wilson of the Dons.

Avoiding conflict with Santa Ana high school's football game at the bowl tomorrow night, city league contests regularly scheduled for Wednesday will be played this evening. The Elks tackle the M. E. South Juniors at 7:30. Santa Ana's 20-30 Club clashes with the First National Bank at 8:30.

L. B. Defeats Santa Anans In Badminton

Competing under slightly unfavorable weather conditions, Santa Ana's badminton players were outclassed by Laguna Beach, 11 to 5, on the Laguna courts last night.

A major upset was scored by Laguna's Stan Johnson, who defeated Santa Ana's Miss Twila Heath, California women's singles champion, 15-3, 15-11. President Milan Miller of Santa Ana has arranged a tentative return match with Laguna at the Y. M. C. A. a week from Thursday night.

The results:

Men's Singles
S. Johnson (LB) def. Al Jasper (SA), 15-0, 15-3.
Vilente (LB) def. Orris Davis (SA), 17-15, 15-12.

Women's Singles
Miss Collins (LB) def. Miss Drassie (LB), 15-0, 15-11, 15-8.
Miss Heath (LB) def. Frank West (SA), 15-1, 15-3.

Mixed Doubles
Vilente and Miss Denmore (LB) def. Monahan and Miss Storey (LB), 15-7, 15-12.

Men's Doubles

Score—Laguna Beach, 11; Santa Ana, 5.

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, May 28. (AP)—Manager Gabby Street of the Missions will not retire and Lefty O'Doul of the San Francisco Seals won't be barnstorming the Orient at the end of this season—if they meant what they said before the start of the season.

And only Oscar Vitt of Oakland could really wear a broad grin.

"Old Sarge" Street proudly announced, at the start of the season, "I want to win the pennant this year and then retire to my home in Joplin."

O'Doul promised his team, "If you win the pennant this year, I'll take you on a barnstorming tour of Japan." Today his Seals are having a tough fight to stay in the first division.

Vitt said, "I'm new in Oakland, but we've got a fighting bunch and should be up among them." The Oakland A's today are perched at the top of the league heap, holding Los Angeles, the runaway leaders of a year ago, to second place.

Sacramento and the Reds, who have felt financial bothers the most, have finally had to wield the axe.

The Solon management returned Glenn Chapman, one of the league's highest paid players, to Brooklyn, and Eddie Joost, who has youthful sale value, was moved into Eddie Mulligan's place at third.

Bert Cole and Jimmy Zinn, veteran moundsmen of the San Francisco club, quickly found new posts after releases, but Cole's new job was brief. He wore the Sealtle uniform for one game when President Bill Klepper changed his mind and released him. Zinn caught on with Sacramento.

ing undoubtedly was turned in at the municipal bowl last Friday when Bill Cole's Santa Ana Stars swarmed all over him for 18 hits and a 10-2 upset. Sabella appeared to be far off form in this engagement.

As a hardball deliverer, "Chico" joined the Los Angeles Angels in 1932 and later the same season was promoted to the St. Louis Cardinals. The following year he assumed mound duties again with Los Angeles and toiled against the New York Giants in exhibition games.

Wins 35 of 39
When Joe Rodgers took over the softball reins at Huntington Beach in 1932, Sabella joined the Oilers and had excellent success his first year. "Chico" hung up a record of 35 victories in 39 starts last season, when Huntington Beach won the National league flag and went on to win the Southern California championship and to lay claim to the state title.

Contests Tonight
Santa Ana at Anaheim; Olive at Long Beach; Huntington Beach at Westminster.

Contests Friday
Santa Ana at Olive, Long Beach at Westminster, Anaheim at Huntington Beach.

Santa Ana's league-leading Stars, anticipating a warm reception, invade Anaheim to face the rising Valencias at 8 o'clock tonight in a softball tussle completing one-sixth of the National wheel's 1935 schedule.

Huntington Beach's champions play at Westminster in a contest that should be as interesting as the Anaheim-Santa Ana fray. Olive's Packers meet the Rear Admirals at Long Beach.

Off to a discouraging start, with narrow defeats to Huntington Beach and Olive, Vic Ruedy's Valencias stepped back into the first-half race by winning from Westminster and Long Beach in their past two games, and would like nothing better than to slip an upset over on Bill Cole's undefeated Stars.

Jimmy Coates, lanky right-hander who ranks with the best in the league, will be on the ridge for the Santa Ana. "String" O'Donnell will be Anaheim's first choice. Al Bushman injured his arm in the Long Beach game, and may not be available if the veteran McDonnell needs relief.

Young Club
Anaheim has a young, hustling club that threatens to be dangerous all season. "Don't count the Valencias out of the championship running," said Manager George Lackey, the day after his Westminster Aviators were drubbed, 5-2. Manager Joe Rodgers of Huntington Beach had nothing but praise for Anaheim following a shaky 11-7 victory by his Oilers.

Same Lineup
Cole proposes to start the identical lineup which Santa Ana employed so successfully in bowling over Huntington Beach, 10-2, here Friday.

LeRoy "Chub" Sears, who hammered two hits off Pitcher "Chico" Sabella of the Oilers, will start in rightfield even if Leavitt Daley puts in an appearance from San Diego, Cole said. Daley burned out the clutch of his car and could not make the trip up the coast last week, but is expected tonight and will be used in a relief role for the outfielder who falls to hit against Anaheim.

SULLIVAN TO BAER

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

XII. DEMPSEY VS. FIRPO—1923

By all odds the shortest, fiercest and most spectacular fight in the history of heavyweight boxing under the Marquis of Queensberry code was Jack Dempsey's conquest of Luis Angel Firpo, "The Wild Bull of the Pampas," before 90,000 fans in the Polo Grounds, New York, the night of September 14, 1923.

The 192-pound Dempsey, floored for no count by a wild swing in the first five seconds of the fight, came raging back to slug it out with the 216-pound Argentinian and knock him down seven times in the first round. Near the end of the round Firpo lashed out with another wild right which caught Dempsey high on the chest and catapulted him head first amid the typewriters and telegraph machines in the press row (see picture).

Regaining the ring a split-second before the count of 10, Dempsey managed to evade Firpo's bull-like rushes for the few remaining seconds of the round. He went to work at the outset of the second round, his famous one-two punch putting Firpo down three more before the challenger finally was unable to rise—from his tenth trip to the canvas! The end came after only 57 seconds of the second round.

Dempsey received $470,000 for his less than four minutes of fighting. There was an aftermath of complaints from the Firpo camp over failure of Referee Johnny Gallagher to send Dempsey to a neutral corner after each knockdown, and also over the fact friendly sports writers helped Jack get back in the ring, but there was no general disagreement with the feeling that the better man had won.

BREA, FULLERTON KEEP CLEAN SLATES; ELKS, UNION OIL WIN IN CITY GAMES

HODGSON JOINS IRVINE TEAM

While Fullerton and Brea continued to set the pace in the Orange County Nightball league, fans began wondering today when—and if—they can expect to see some close competition among the eight teams this season.

Top-sided scores marked play on three fronts last night, as Brea overwhelmed Garden Grove, 11-0; Fullerton swamped Olive, 17-5; and Huntington Beach annihilated San Juan Capistrano, 10-1. The only hard-fought game of the third round was played between Irvine and Placentia, Irvine winning 7-3 on its home grounds.

Some kind of record was set at Huntington Beach by Pitcher Ernie Peltzer, who fanned 21 of Manager Chet Congdon's San Juan Capistrano players. The Class B Oilers were held in check the first four innings, but scored their 10 runs in the next four.

Hodgson Joins Irvine
Garden Grove lost its ace pitcher, Ray Hodgson, who was given his voluntary release to join Irvine. Hodgson was mainly responsible for Irvine's win over Placentia.

"Sonny" Rodgers and George Davies hit home runs for Fullerton against Olive. The undefeated upcountry nine pounded out 19 hits. Roy Stout hurled excellent ball for the winners.

BITTERNESS IN FAMILY MARKS FIRST BIRTHDAY OF QUINTUPLETS

BUILDERS PLAN DEPOSITORY FOR BIDS

Orange county building contractors took a little time out yesterday afternoon to note that the National Recovery Act codes had been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court; then they went ahead with plans to establish a bid depository under the code authority, unmoved by the high tribunal's ruling.

Today they announced that the new program for preventing "bid chiseling" will go into operation June 1. It will function with Harry Westover, attorney, as secretary-manager.

Under the new program, no contractor will bid on construction work unless the bids are handled through the depository, according to the system worked out at a meeting yesterday in the Barrows Construction company offices.

No "Shopping Around"

When a house or a building is to be erected, all contractors will be eligible to bid, but the bids must be opened at a specified time and place. Duplicate bids must be deposited at the chamber of commerce.

In the past it has been possible for a person to have a bid made by one contractor and then "shop around," playing one against the other to prune the price down, contractors explain. Under the new system this will not be possible, as all bids are to be submitted and opened according to the depository plan.

Even without authority of the NRA behind the program, contractors believe the system will work, with the cooperation of all builders to enforce it.

Discuss Affiliation

The district administrative committee for the bid depository is composed of Theron Means, chairman; George C. Pickering, Sam Smith, George A. Barrows and W. H. Bowman.

At yesterday's session the possibility of Orange county contractors becoming affiliated with the Associated General Contractors of Los Angeles was discussed with F. J. Connolly, manager of the latter organization. If the plan goes through, the Orange county contractors' organization would be continued on its present basis, Mr. Barrows explained. Definite steps in the matter are expected to be taken at the next session of the Orange county group.

TO EXPLAIN FHA PLAN TONIGHT

Three letters in the alphabet are to be the motive for a mass meeting in the Willard school auditorium at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The letters are FHA and stand for Federal Housing Act, the measure designed to aid home owners or others to borrow money for repairs, equipment or new construction.

What the act is, how borrowers can take advantage of it and what they can do with the money will be explained by Bill Harris of the FHA at Los Angeles, and former president of Kiwanis International. Other speakers will explain various features of the system, according to Robert Hatfield, vice chairman of the FHA advisory committee here and secretary of the Builders' Exchange.

The program will open with an overture by the State Emergency Relief Administration orchestra directed by Leon Eckles. A xylophone solo will be given by Edward Klein.

According to Mr. Hatfield, the event has been arranged in the belief that many persons do not fully understand the FHA and what it can do for them. They can find out in detail tonight, and the program will be over by 9:30 p. m., he said.

P. hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Following the lodge meeting, dancing and cards will provide a social evening for lodge members and their friends. Frank Niemann's Laguna Beach orchestra will play. Chancellor Commander Lloyd Stewart will preside.

"Say!" Puffy exclaims to this odd-looking stranger.
"You mean like a calf—or a dog in the manger."
The man shakes his head, then he painfully sighs.
"I have a good reason to mourn," he replies.

COUNCIL TAKES STEP TO OPEN FLOWER ST.

Opening of Flower street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, was seen as an actuality last night when Councilman Joseph P. Smith announced that the city had started negotiations for purchase of a lot facing Sixth street.

It is one of the two needed for the right of way, the other facing on Fifth street.

Plans for opening the thoroughfare call for a 40-foot right of way with a 40-foot lot and rock surface. Concrete curbs would be included in the project.

Decision of the council to open Flower street was based on the fact that in that particular locality there is an insufficient number of through streets to handle traffic created by football games and other activities in the municipal bowl.

FARM BUILDING CATALOG IS OUT

A new farm building and construction catalog compiled by the agricultural engineering department of the University of California is proving popular because of improving financial conditions, according to Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg. The book is on display at his office.

Each of the 100 plans described and illustrated is designed for California conditions, he said. Cost estimates are given, and complete specifications are available at small cost. Emphasis is placed on low cost construction, with designs including everything from a bull-pen gate to a $7,000 house.

For more elaborate plans it is expected that it will be found advisable to consult an architect or agricultural engineer, Mr. Wahlberg said.

GIRLS CAN LEARN AT SEWING CLASS

Do you know how to make tucks and ruffles? Perhaps you've struggled over pleats and smart finishes for nautical dresses instead.

Whatever the fancy of the high school girl, she can satisfy her style designs if she takes sewing under Miss Ruth Rowland at the Santa Ana High school and junior college, according to the exhibit in the windows of the SERA building at Broadway and Second streets, this week.

Scarves, rugs and shawls woven in the jaycee classes are on display, along with a variety of sport dresses, coats, formal, and street frocks, made by the high school classes.

MUSIC KEYNOTE AT CHURCH SUNDAY

Music will set the keynote of evening services at the First Christian church next Sunday when musical organizations from three churches combine to present the evening's program.

The First Methodist church choir under Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh and the First Christian church choir under Frank Pierce will combine. Mrs. R. S. Briggs will be at the organ, and the First Baptist Sunday school orchestra, augmented by a group from the Orange county school orchestra under W. G. Axworthy, will play.

Preceding the choir music, the orchestra will give a half-hour concert. The Rev. W. S. Buchanan will give a short talk on music.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS

MASS SUNG TO OPEN TODAY'S CEREMONY

CALLANDER, Ont., Tuesday, May 28. (AP)—One year ago today Mrs. Oliva Dionne turned a wan, frightened face to the midwife who stood at her bedside, and asked weakly:

"Were they—triplets?"
"Yes, Elzire—and two more."
Such was the drama of the ramshackle farmhouse on May 28, 1934, that was remembered today with ceremonies, gifts and best wishes—the first birthday anniversary of the Dionne quintuplets.

Bitterness in Home
In their parents' farmhouse, however, there was bitterness and resentment, for the quintuplets—Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie—have a new, spick and span home across the road, with the flag of England flying before it. They are wards of his majesty the king.

A solemn high mass at 8 a. m. (E.S.T.), at Sacred Heart church at Corbell—the church where Oliva Dionne and Elzire Legros attended mass as youngsters—was the opening ceremony of the formal birthday observance. The parents had been asked to attend, but late yesterday Dionne requested that the high mass be sung at Callander instead.

He was told that the mass would be at Corbell as planned, and the invitation to attend was urged on him again.

Nothing further was planned for the day until early evening when ceremonies will take place at the little hospital by the side of the road, with Dr. Allan Roy Dafee, Minister Croll, Dr. Routley and members of the hospital staff participating.

To Be Broadcast
This will not be public for the hospital provides no such facilities, but the affair will be broadcast internationally between 5 and 5:30 p. m. (E.S.T.), 2-2:30 p. m. (P.T.). A recorded version of the broadcast will be put on the air over some stations at 9 p. m.

CITY'S LIGHTS MAY RETURN

Many of Santa Ana's ornamental street lights that have been dark for the past three years will again brighten the streets, it was seen as a possibility today when Mayor Fred C. Rowland announced plans for including the lights in the budget for the coming year were being considered.

Lloyd Banks, city auditor, pointed out that during the fiscal year in July, 1932, the cost for the lights totaled $19,136. Many of them were darkened as an economy measure. The cost for the city's lights during the year 1933-1934 was $12,518, which was $7618 less than the amount spent during the year prior to the economy measure.

Mayor Rowland said he was opposed to any action which would necessitate an increase in the tax rate. However, he said he realized the situation as it exists at present is undesirable. It is possible, he said, that some arrangement may be made whereby the lights can again be turned on without increasing taxes. It is especially desirable from an advertising standpoint that Santa Ana's streets are bright during the San Diego exposition, Mr. Rowland said.

GREEK EDITOR TO TALK HERE TONIGHT

Dr. Adamantios Theophilus Polyzois, editor and publisher of a Greek newspaper, will be the main speaker at the annual alumni banquet of the Tavern Tatters, Santa Ana Junior College Literary club, when they meet at the Doris-Kathryn tea shoppe tonight.

Other portions of the program will include talks by alumni of the college who were members of Tavern Tatters.

New Spiritual Dimension is Need of Nation, Lillian B. Goldsmith Says

Ebell Women Hear Noted Lecturer

Delegates to Convention Present Impressions of Del Monte Trip

"America, if she is to survive, must find a new spiritual dimension, new spiritual values—a broader horizon and a 'life more abundant,'" was the challenging conclusion of the lecture given by Mrs. Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith, noted Los Angeles reviewer and commentator, at the meeting of Santa Ana Valley Ebell society yesterday afternoon in Ebell clubhouse.

The clubwomen also heard reports of the state federation's recent annual convention at Del Monte by Mrs. C. V. Davis, retiring club president, and Mrs. E. D. White, their delegate and southern district's chairman of juniors.

"The world is awakening to new ideals of courage. We are going into a new era, and those whose hands are on the lever of power today will determine the course of the future and of the lives of generations yet unborn," Mrs. Goldsmith said.

Displays Charm

The guest lecturer displayed a great deal of charm and a very pleasing presence on the platform. She first outlined, "what the world is thinking, in terms of countries and politics," placing a great deal of emphasis on the Versailles treaty's unfortunate significance as a "hymn of hate" and the resultant war clouds in the air.

"The editor of one of our large magazines recently drew attention to the fact that in this eventful period in our national history, seven and one-half million Americans devoted their attention for a solid week to the outcome of the Culbertson-Sims match and changes in the laws of contract bridge," Mrs. Goldsmith reported.

"From Shakespeare down through the years, all the great stage producers have been concerned primarily with their business as a commercial enterprise," was another thought-provoking statement of the speaker.

"Therefore," she continued, "let us as audience patronize the more worthwhile plays and strive to discourage the production of plays which are sordid, sexy and undesirable generally."

Reviews Group

Mrs. Goldsmith reviewed in brief "Road to War" (Walter Nollis, which she recommended as a clear-sighted expose of a "world gone mad, from 1914 to 1917: 'Roll River' (James Boyd), "a majestic, sweeping story of two lives"; "Blind Men Crossing a Bridge" (Susan Miles), story of astrous young man.

She also reviewed "Gerald—A Portrait" (Daphne Du Maurier), an insight into the heart of an English family; "No Food with Your Meals," Fannie Hurst's amusing book on "doing or dieting"; "Of Time and the River" (Thomas Wolfe), which she characterized as "greatly over-written but excellent in character delineation."

Other books mentioned were "Farewell to Revolution" (Everett Dean Martin), worthwhile book of current interest; "National Velvet," Edna Bagnold's popular novel on horse racing; "Days without End" (Eugene O'Neill), a play based on faith, and "Dodsworth" (Sinclair Lewis), a play version of the Lewis book.

Reviews Prize Play
Mrs. Goldsmith devoted a generous portion of her time to a review of the Pulitzer prize play, "The Old Maid," Zoe Akins' arrangement of Edith Wharton's novel. She told in a colorful way the story of a mother of the early

This Will Be Smart For a Summer Evening

PATTERN 5360

If you're planning to go places and do things at all, even if it's just a neighborly visit, you want to add this adorable cape to your wardrobe. You'll immediately transfer all its adorableness to yourself, it's a most flattering accessory. You can make it in white, black or any of the pastel shades. And can't you imagine how lovely it will be over that summer georgette or chiffon? It is crocheted in cotton and its soft draping adds richness and charm to your appearance.

In pattern 5360 you will find complete instruction for making the cape shown; an illustration of it and of all stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Santa Ana Journal Household Arts Department.

'eighties and her difficulties in rearing an illegitimate daughter while living in the home of an unfriendly cousin. The Wharton-esque plot development of frustrated emotions was admirably recounted by the speaker, who then concluded on an inspirational note.

Mrs. Davis, as presiding officer, extended to Mrs. White the privilege of reporting the convention which they from the Senior Ebell, Mrs. Don Park and Mrs. George Walker from the Juniors, and Barbara Davis and Patty Rapp of Girls' Ebell, attended.

Mrs. White, who is to continue her duties as district chairman of Juniors next year, mentioned as a highlight of the conclave the presentation by Miss Josephine G. Seaman, state president, of a project trophy for the district to Ebell for its day nursery. The trophy, an etching, will be displayed at the next meeting.

North Hospitable
Mrs. White also mentioned the hospitality of northern district, a forum led by Dr. Mariana Bertola, the personality of Dr. Clara B. Burdette, first president of the federation, the similarity of Mrs. Herbert Hoover to Mrs. R. G. Tuttle, the Juniors' program and their session at which Mrs. Park acted in the absence of the secretary, and the Juniors' decision to send their present and their next state president to the national conclave in Detroit.

Other features of the business session were announcements of a

MYSTERY CRUISE FUND TO SEND FOUR DELEGATES

Four high school girls will be sent to Asilomar camp next month as a result of the successful Mystery Cruise held in the Y. W. C. A. rooms Saturday night under the direction of the Tri-Y.

Proceeds amounting to $138.90 were realized from the benefit, Miss Mary Porter, Girl Reserve secretary, said today. More than 500 persons attended the affair, which was a galaxy of dancing, entertainment, and carnival fun.

"From the crowd of junior and senior high school students who attended, we can realize how much they need a place for entertainment," Miss Porter said. "It certainly proves that the Y. W. C. A. can be of great benefit in providing a place for amusement for the younger students of the city."

The next general meeting will feature installation of officers and a tea June 10.

LOVELY LUNCHEON PAYS TRIBUTE TO GUEST ARTIST

A small, but an unusually beautifully appointed luncheon, was given by Mrs. F. E. Coulter, program chairman of Santa Ana Valley Ebell society, yesterday in her home on South Ross street in compliment to Mrs. Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith of Los Angeles, noted lecturer and commentator at the Ebell meeting yesterday afternoon.

Because the color red holds a fascination for her, the hostess took it as her motif for the luncheon table, which was laid with handsome imported linen squares and centered with a heavy silver bowl of deep crimson snapdragons from her garden. Two silver spun-glass birds stood at either side of the flowers, and the appetizer course was four mammoth strawberries with molded sugar on ruby glassware. The ruby service was combined effectively with etched gold chinaware for the dessert course. All details of the menu furthered the chosen color scheme, and by an amusing coincidence the honor guest's frock was also in a vivid flame print with black accents.

White snapdragons, shasta daisies and pincushion flowers in a low bowl were used in the living room.

Sharing the occasion were Mrs. Clarence Gustlin, Miss Lula Minter, Mrs. Goldsmith, Mrs. Emmett Elliott and Miss Ellen Sneybey.

MISS FAYE GRIFFIN HONORED AT SHOWER PARTY

Miss Faye Griffin was complimented with a bridal shower given Saturday afternoon at the Balboa Ebell clubhouse. The early part of the afternoon was spent in sewing. Each guest embroidered her initials on a satin square to be made into a pillow for the bride-elect.

Pine and white were observed throughout the dessert hour, when bouquets of sweet peas and gladioli were used. One large table was laden with shower gifts for Miss Griffin.

Guests included Misses Roy Griffin, Charles Brock, George Merrick, Alvin Pinkley, Henry Miner, Harold Knight, Harry Robinson, Fran Cox, Lloyd Turner, Fred Crozier and F. E. Flinn, and Misses Virginia McClellan, Robin Ann Cross, Lyla Ruth Allen, Alice Straight, Lyle Flinn, Helen Jane Fuller, Harriet Abrams, Mary Jane Sturgeon, Alma Graves, Alice Sine, Joan Cox, Jean King and Marion Dickey.

Coffee
(Milk for Children Daily)

Escalloped Eggs
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 hard cooked eggs, sliced
Melt the 3 tablespoons butter and add flour. Mix well and add milk. Cook until creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add seasonings and eggs. Pour into buttered shallow baking dish. Cover with crumbs mixed with melted butter. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Rhubarb Upside Down Pudding
4 cups sliced rhubarb
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
Mix rhubarb with sugar and flour. Add rest of ingredients and pour into buttered pan. Cover with crust.

Crust
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
Mix dry ingredients. Add milk slowly, when soft dough forms, pat out and fit over top rhubarb. Make 4 holes in top. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Unmold, rhubarb side up. Serve warm or cold.

Boxed or home-made sugar cookies, rolled, make a good "crust" to hold cream or fruit fillings. For a more fancy dessert, spread with whipped cream when served. This, of course, adds calories.

Fresh fruit salads are delectable at this season. Strawberries add both flavor and color and they blend well with pineapple and bananas.

VEGETABLE SALAD

By Mrs. Mary M. Pleis
212 East Myrtle street.

Ingredients: 6 good sized potatoes boiled and sliced thin, 3/4 cup finely-chopped cabbage, 3/4 tbs. chopped pickles, 2 chopped onions, 2 chopped apples, 1 green pepper, and (these last may be omitted if desired) yolks of 2 hard-boiled eggs, cut fine.

Mix together thoroughly and pour over it a vegetable salad dressing. A very little grated carrot, cold boiled peas and beans may be added if desired.

Special Dressing

Ingredients: 1 tsp. celery seed, 1 tsp. salt and pinch of pepper, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 vinegar, 1 tsp. butter, 1 tbs. Worcestershire sauce, place butter and vinegar over a flame. When warm add other ingredients. Let come to boiling point. Cool slightly, add 2 beaten egg yolks and replace over flame until thickens, stirring constantly.

HUNGARIAN GOULASH

By Mrs. C. H. Vorce
1027 Hickory street.

Ingredients: 1 1/2 box of spaghetti, 1 can of peas, 1 can of mushrooms, 1 large can of tomatoes, 1 can of pimientos, cut up, 1 can ripe olives if desired, 1 1/2 pounds of ground round steak, 1/2 pound of salt pork, 1/2 an onion, cheese, and salt and pepper to taste.

Cook the spaghetti in salted water until tender. Put all of canned goods in pan to heat. Cut up the onion and fry it with the salt pork and ground steak until it is heated through. Put all ingredients into a baking pan, cover with cheese and put in oven and bake an hour.

ANAHEIM HOME SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

The Anaheim ranch home which was the birthplace of Miss Helen Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Burns of Sunkist avenue, provided a pretty setting Saturday evening for her marriage to Harry Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bradley, 902 Cypress avenue. Rev. Frederick Schrock, First Congregational minister, read the marriage service in the presence of relatives of the couple.

Miss Burns wore a blue silk frock with gardenia corsage. She carried her father's Sunday school Bible tied with tulle ribbon. She also wore a pair of gold bracelets which were a gift from her grandfather, G. E. Burns, to her grandmother.

Miss Ruth Bradley, in pink frock with gray accessories, was maid of honor, and Edwin Bradley was best man.

A wedding cake was served in formal bridal manner in the dining room after the ceremony. Mrs. Richard Cribaro and her daughter, Miss Nellie Elizabeth Cribaro, aunt and cousin of the bride, decorated the home in white flowers and ferns.

On their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley will make their home in Santa Ana.

The bride is a graduate of Anaheim union high school and studied in Fullerton junior college. Mr. Bradley is a graduate of Santa Ana high school and junior college and is employed by a newspaper as northern Orange county circulation representative.

SYCAMORE LODGE HEARS REPORT OF DELEGATE

Reports of the delegates who attended grand lodge in San Francisco, May 14-17, featured the meeting of Sycamore Lodge No. 140 Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Mrs. Bessie H. Stovall, retiring district deputy of Orange county, and member of the Sycamore lodge, acted as marshal of the Rebekah assembly for the opening session. She complimented Mrs. Jessica Fournier of Los Angeles, president of the assembly.

In addition she escorted the newly appointed marshal, Mrs. Henry Mang of Anaheim, to her post in installation ceremonies and was the official escort for grand officers at the other regular sessions.

Other delegates who reported were Mrs. Inez Baker, retiring deputy marshal, Mrs. Elizabeth Price, and Mrs. Hazel Ryan. Mrs. Millie G. West, noble grand, presided at the meeting.

Brothers of the lodge were in charge of the dining room in observance of the annual "brothers' night." G. W. Stovall headed the committee. Officers will be elected at the next meeting, June 8.

Golden Day Observed By Pair

Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Faccou, 721 South Flower street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday by holding open house in the afternoon for 150 friends and having a family dinner party in the evening at the Doris Kathryn tea room for 50 relatives.

The golden couple came to the United States from Odessa, Denmark, 15 years ago to make their home in Santa Ana near their children.

The happy day began with a breakfast served in the garden of their son, Soren Sorenson, 820 So. Van Ness, for the family and a few friends.

Attend Services

After breakfast the group went to St. Pater's Lutheran church where special services were conducted for Mr. and Mrs. Faccou and another couple, Mr. and Mrs. W. Miesel, who will observe their golden anniversary May 30. Attending them were Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Lykke, who celebrated their golden anniversary Dev. 7 of last year.

The two honored couples were presented with baskets of flowers from the ladies' aid of the church. At 2 o'clock a reception was given in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson, South Broadway. The home was decorated with a profusion of flowers. Many gifts were presented the honored couple.

The hostess duties for the luncheon were daughters and daughters-in-law of the couple: Mrs. Paul Anderson in powder blue crepe with pink slippers, Mrs. Soren Sorenson in delect blue with white slippers, Mrs. Walter Sorenson in pale green trimmed in ivory lace, Mrs. Harold Faccou in yellow, and Mrs. Christine Faccou in black lace.

Mrs. Faccou's white hair was daintily arranged in a coil high on her head, and she wore a becoming black crepe gown trimmed in gold lace and a corsage of yellow roses.

Two pretty young granddaughters presided at the tea table, which was appointed with lace linens, and a centerpiece of yellow roses. Arlene Sorenson, daughter of the Sorensons, presiding over the tea service, wore peacock blue crepe. Barbara Faccou, daughter of the Harold Faccous, wore rosin-green blue crepe and served the coffee. Sandwiches and pastries were also served.

At the dinner party a large horseshoe-shaped table was centered and a large three-tiered wedding cake decorated in yellow with miniature bride couple standing under a golden arch twined with lilies of the valley. Walter Sorenson, master of ceremonies, called on various guests to make speeches. Most of them responded in the Danish language.

COCKTAIL PARTY COMPLIMENTS VIRGINIA POPE

A smart cocktail party given Sunday from 4 to 6 o'clock by Miss Esther Ruth at her home, 2224 1/2 Fox Hill drive, West Los Angeles, complimented Miss Virginia Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Pope of Santa Ana and bride-elect of Philip Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio. A lingerie shower was given the honoree.

Miss Ruth's sisters, Polly and Harriet, and their mother, Mrs. Ruth, assisted with the hostess duties. A horn of plenty centered the serving table, which was bountifully supplied with assorted hors d'oeuvres.

Mrs. Pope, mother of the honoree, and Mrs. Roy Grist (Phyllis Pope), a sister were present from Santa Ana. Miss Pope is to be married June 16th.

Other guests were Misses Virginia Lyons and La Verne Harding of Los Angeles, Misses Richard Reynolds, Peter Gnoochef, Marie Hines and Merle Gilson and Misses Sue Bristol, Frances Matlock, Marie Harvey, Janet Schultheis, Karla Schmidt and Lena Bickel of Hollywood.

Also Mrs. William Ruth of Van Nuys, Mrs. Don Williams of Glendale, Mrs. Fred Avery of North Hollywood, and Miss Doris Megowan of Inglewood.

MISSIONARY GROUP HEARS JAPANESE

Paul Watanabe, Japanese missionary formerly from Boyle Heights, Los Angeles, spoke at the meeting of the Women's Missionary society of Calvary church held there last Thursday. Mr. Watanabe is on a trip around the world previous to returning to his native country.

Mrs. W. Breckenridge, president, officiated at the business meeting, and Mrs. Glen C. Bowers gave the devotional message. Mrs. Edna Burrows sang "He Died of a Broken Heart." Potluck luncheon was served at noon, and the morning was spent in sewing.

MEET the WIFE

2. MRS. HARRY L. HOPKINS

BARBARA HOPKINS doesn't like "violent social life" so occasionally "ducks out" on her much-in-demand husband, Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator. . . . She prefers groups of intimate friends. . . . likes to knit for her daughter, Diana. . . . is fond of book-talk. . . . reads much in the hours her husband is kept at his desk.

When she does step out she is a relief for the eyes. . . . slender. . . . with ivory skin, dark eyes. . . . no rouge. . . . bright red lipstick and fingernails to match. . . . soft voice and a warm smile. She was born Barbara Duncan in Port Huron, Mich. . . . swam the St. Clair river when she was ten. . . . spent two years at the university at Ann Arbor. . . . took a hospital course in New York, where she did welfare work. . . . and met her husband, now nation's No. 1 welfare-worker.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF ENGAGEMENT IS SURPRISE

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Ellen Bandick to Ed Schlueter, both of Orange, was a surprise to a family dinner given Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bandick, parents of Miss Bandick.

The dinner had been given to honor Miss Margaret Allen on her confirmation from St. John's Lutheran church. News of the engagement was made known when one of the guests noticed the betrothal ring Miss Bandick was wearing.

Present at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bandick, Mr. and Mrs. Al Bandick and son, Donald; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bandick, Miss Margaret Allen, Miss Ruth Wasson, Walter Bandick, Ed Schlueter and Miss Ellen Bandick.

PAST NOBLE GRAND SURPRISED WITH PARTY

Ida Carey, past noble grand of Torosa Rebekah lodge, was given a surprise birthday party yesterday at her home, 313 East Pine street, by her fellow members of the Past Noble Grands association.

The guests arrived early in the afternoon with gifts, a handkerchief shower, and ice cream and cake. They gave Mrs. Carey a magazine subscription. Torosa lodge presented her with a basket of gladioli, cornflowers and baby-breath.

Also present were Fannie M. Lacy, Edna Kinsella, Jean Tremble, Blanche Chandler, Martha Van de Walker, Ada Spencer, Mary Hertert, Martha McKee, Mollie Watkins, Allie Cain and Mary Kuhl.

The comptroller of Florida reports the volume of gasoline sold within the state during March was the greatest since March, 1926.

'Bon Voyage' Parties Given

Two last "bon voyage" courtesies were extended over the past week-end to Mrs. Richard Emison of North Park boulevard, who with Mr. Emison will sail on the S. S. Mariposa tomorrow for a month's vacation jaunt to Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Emison, will occupy the Emison home in the coming month and will care for the Emisons' daughters, Patricia and Mary Elizabeth Emison.

Mrs. Herbert Miller and Mrs. Hugh J. Lowe shared honors Friday evening at an informal bridge dinner party in the Lowe home, 2005 North Ross street. Twenty friends were present.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tucker were hosts with a buffet supper and bridge party in their home on East Santa Clara. Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Simpson, cousins of Mrs. Emison, who will accompany the Santa Anans Honolulu-ward, were here from Los Angeles for the affair.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By the Associated Press)

ALEX KAMPOURIS, Reds—Belted his second homer of the year and batted in three runs in victory over Braves.

EUEL MOORE, Phillies—Blanked Pirates for 4½ innings in relief role as Phillies topped first win of the year over Pirates.

CECIL TRAVIS, Senators—Led early rally against Indians connecting for two hits.

JOHNNY ALLEN, Yankees—Held Tigers to three hits to annex his fifth victory of the season.

AL BEJMA, Browns—Hit homer which climaxed Brownie rally, driving in tying and winning runs against Red Sox.

VERNON WILSHIRE, Athletics—Limited White Sox to seven well spaced hits to chalk up his fourth victory of the campaign.

MORE ABOUT ROSS

Prices ranged from $1.10 to $11.50. If a bad turn of weather forces postponement, the fight will be set back to Wednesday night.

Resting in seclusion in the city overnight, McLarnin and Ross step on the scales at the boxing commission's offices at 1 p. m. (10 a. m., Pacific time), with the main bout going on two hours later. No broadcast is scheduled.

McLarnin Under Weight—Although McLarnin kept his weight no secret up to the last minute, the word spread among fight followers yesterday that the champion was "considerably" under the limit or 147 pounds when he stepped on the scales at a gym-grounds and it has just dawned on us why.

Most of them, if you want our guess, are practicing picking the winners for that time when the state will permit betting on the canines. It's not a bad stunt at that—cheap, and practical. It can even be made entertaining.

One might pick winners with his neighbor, then, as we all did when younger, exchange "corks" on the arm in place of dollars across the line for the loser.

We'll let some one else start the fad, however, because we now use our one good arm every afternoon—to help the other one hold our head.

JOYCE IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Tuesday, May 28. (AP)—Joyce Wethered, English golfing star, has arrived to see the sights, and incidentally to play some golf for money. The tall, pleasant faced woman with the prematurely grey hair who has won the British women's golf title four times, faces a schedule of more than 30 matches.

FAHEY RE-APPOINTED

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 28. (AP)—President Roosevelt late Monday re-appointed John H. Fahey, of Massachusetts, to the Federal Home Loan bank board. He now is serving as chairman. George A. Gordon of New York was named minister to Haiti.

Kansas has been recognized officially by the department of agriculture as the nineteenth state practically free of bovine tuberculosis.

WANT AD HEIRESS

By ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY:
FRAN CAREY, stenographer, found an old-fashioned locket on the corner of Third and Cedar streets. She advertises it without results and then, after a few months' forlorn search, she is in the thrill of falling hopelessly in love with WARD QUENTIN, charming young man whose newly opened real estate office is across the hall from where she works. NINA MARKHAM, her roommate, intuitively dislikes Ward.

What Fran does not know is that an old-fashioned locket has been "lost" at Third and Cedar by Harriet Raleigh, eccentric wealthy old woman and that Miss Raleigh had so made her will that the person who found the locket would inherit $6,000,000. The terms of the will were known only to Miss Raleigh and her attorney, tall blond young CHRISTOPHER ABBOTT.

When one of Abbott's copies of the will is stolen, he suspects ELLEN SPENCER, Miss Raleigh's housekeeper, and her dissipated brother, JAY. He warns Fran to guard her locket, though he will not tell her why, and advises her against persons who may seek her friendship. Although he does not say so, Abbott suspects Ward's motive in marrying Fran but realizes that he is himself too much interested in her to be prejudiced toward her lover.

Abbott is right. Ward is the tool of the Spencers. He has hoped to victimize Fran, marry her, help her collect the $6,000,000 then contrive a fatal "accident." Only LAEL HUBBELL, objects to the cold blooded murder plan. She is Ward's mistress (though ostensibly his secretary). He loves her, not Fran. Two days before Fran and Ward are to be married Miss Raleigh dies. Next day Fran is told by Abbott that her locket, after all, is not the one Miss Raleigh had "lost." Fran, of course, tells Ward. Ward, after a conference with Ellen Spencer, leaves town. But first he sends a message to Fran saying his mother is to be operated on at once—that he has gone by air—that she must postpone the wedding. He promises to wire her soon as possible. Fran receives the note shortly before the wedding hour.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR
It was 3 o'clock before Fran found time to go to the telephone office. When she sat down at the oak desk to write her message to Ward, she realized she was very tired. All the phoning she had done, the personal visit to the Little Church of the Roses, the argument with the florist because he had already started to make her wedding bouquet and would have the orchids on his hands—

"Mr. Ward Quentin, care of Mrs. —" what was Ward's mother's first name? The girl laid down the pencil and tried to think. Ward must have told her—of course, he had told her and she had forgotten. Yet now that she thought of it, he always seemed to say "my mother," this and that.

Well, "Mr. Ward Quentin, care of Mrs. Quentin, Fairmoore, Ia." would get to him. The message followed. "So sorry to hear about your mother. Let me know every thing until your return. Wish there was something I could do. Much love, Fran." At the lower left-hand side of the yellow sheet she put her name and her address, the Sedgewick apartments. Then she took the message to the desk.

No Such Town
The clerk counted through the words quickly, marked them on the telegram, and reached under the counter for a big book which she consulted assiduously for a few minutes.

"No Fairmoore, Ia, Miss. You must mean Fairfield, Ia."

"No, it's Fairmoore, Ia," Fran said positively. Certainly she knew where Ward's mother lived! "Fairmoore, Ia," she repeated more positively.

"But there isn't any Fairmoore, Ia. That's what I told you. Not listed in my book and it has every town in the United States in it, with the tolls, and toll stations—"

"It's a small town—"

That much, Ward had told her it was a small town. He said Fairmoore, hadn't he? Yes, he had. It was Fairmoore.

"I have towns in here of only a half dozen people. No Fairmoore in Iowa," the clerk returned crisply.

Fran looked from the yellow paper to the gray covered book. She couldn't be wrong, could she? She couldn't have misunderstood Ward? Still it was an easy thing to do. Fairmoore, Fairfield.

"It must be Fairfield," the clerk insisted. "Shall I send it there for you, and then put a tracer on the message to see that it's delivered all right?"

"I guess that's the only thing to do—"

Fran watched the girl cross wandered into the bedroom to have a look at the peach negligee. When Nina came in later, she was still muttering the word to herself.

"Coming out to dinner with me?" Nina asked, but Fran wasn't. She was going to make something for herself in the kitchen.

"There might be a message from Ward, and I've got to be here to take it. He might even call long distance."

"You can call the telegraph office when we come back."

But Fran shook her head, and Nina left alone. When she returned an hour later, Fran had had no message. Nor had she had any message when Nina came in from a dancing date at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, but Fran was huddled on the davenport in her kimono, reading.

"You'd better come to bed," Nina advised yawning.

"I thought I'd stay up until about 4. Ward is sure to try to get a phone call through to me."

Nina didn't stir when Fran crawled into bed with her at five. She didn't even hear the alarm clock buzz at 7, nor feel Fran scramble over her to turn it off. At 10 when she rose, Fran was sitting in the living room, reading the morning papers.

"Have breakfast?"

"Hours ago. Yours is in the kitchen."

"Ward call or wire?"

Calls for Wire
"Not yet. I've called the telegraph office until they're tired of hearing my voice. Nina—there's something wrong. I know. Ward's mother must have—died. Otherwise I would have heard—"

Fran's face was drawn and dark bluish circles showed under her eyes. "But he probably has millions of things to attend to, arrangements to make, everything on his shoulders—he is the only child, you know."

Nina agreed with her, but in her heart she couldn't understand why he couldn't have taken two minutes off from making arrangements to wire Fran and tell her how things were going.

"Another cup of hot coffee?" she asked going into the kitchen.

Fran said she might want one, so Nina brought it to the couch on a tray.

"Surely something awful must have happened," Fran kept saying as she sipped the hot liquid. "But I'm so out of it here, not knowing what it is—"

"You'll hear this afternoon—"

"Oh, of course. It's the waiting that's hard."

But Fran didn't hear that afternoon, nor that evening, although she stayed close to the telephone and called the telegraph office every hour. That evening she sat in the living room again until 6 o'clock Monday morning, waiting for a long distance call which never came. When she finally went to bed, she couldn't sleep, so she arose at 7 again, and had Nina's breakfast ready for her when she got up.

Office Is Silent
At 9 she called Ward's office—Lael was usually there by that time she knew—and again she drew a blank. No one answered. A few minutes later she was putting down the receiver once more—from a call to Lael's apartment house. Miss Hubbell had not returned yet. No, there was no message from her. Yes, she said when she left Saturday morning that she would be back Monday morning.

Monday morning Christopher Abbott was seeing Peters of the Acme agency again.

"Think I've got the dope on your Ward Quentin now, Mr. Abbott. Something came through from the continental office—"

"We won't bother about Mr. Ward Quentin any longer, Peters. I've got the dope on him myself, so you can close the case."

"Close the case!"

"Yes, I won't need you any more. If you'll send me a bill as soon as you can, I'll be satisfied."

Peters was a good bit perturbed. The case was a nice one, paid well, easy—he would miss it. Still that was the way things went, just as they were getting interesting. "You'll want the last bit of dope on Quentin from the foreign office?"

"I don't think so, Peters. We'll let it go—"

Abbott was smiling as he waved the detective to the door.

ROOSEVELT HIT BY HIGH COURT RULING

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 28 (AP)—The supreme court ruled Monday the president lacks constitutional authority to remove federal trade commissioners except for causes named in the federal trade commission act.

It made this ruling in a case brought by the executor of the estate of William E. Humphrey, who a short time before his death was removed by the president as a member of the trade commission.

VOL. 1, NO. 24 Tuesday, May 28, 1935

BLUE MONDAY

It was Blue Monday for the Blue Eagle yesterday. Also the signs were bad for another administration measure, the Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium bill. Both were virtually wrecked by decisions of the United States supreme court. The result politically: The administration is in a turmoil. It sustained two body blows which, while not wholly unexpected, nevertheless leaves it punch-drunk, to use a ringside expression.

Even our own Senator McAdoo, roused himself from his doze long enough to remark:

"It is no surprise to me."

Constitutional lawyers everywhere agreed long ago that certain provisions of the National Recovery Act would not stand the acid test of judicial scrutiny. But most of them kept still about it. It was highly unpopular to criticize the administration or its unheard-of manipulations during a time of stress. By virtually unanimous consent the critics kept still, held their peace, and waited and hoped.

WHEN section 3 was challenged in supreme court, however, the honeymoon was over. A Brooklyn firm was convicted on 17 counts of an indictment charging its members with violating certain provisions of the live poultry code and of two counts charging them with violating the minimum wage and maximum hour provisions. The second circuit court of appeals sustained the conviction and the case was appealed to the high tribunal.

The upshot of it all was a complete black-out for all the codes. The President now has no authority to make codes where transactions have merely an indirect effect on intrastate commerce. Chief Justice Hughes emphasized the fact that never before had there been such authority delegated to a president and added:

"The federal constitution does not provide . . . for the federal government to control the internal concerns of a state." And: "The attempt to fix hours and wages of the defendants was not a valid exercise of federal power."

The decision of the court was unanimous. Donald R. Richberg, head of the NRA board, declined to comment until he could study the decision.

"I want to read it over and see where it leaves us," was all Richberg would say to newspaper men.

"Well, what else was there to say? There are a lot of his associates in the democratic party and more outside who are saying the same thing today.

"Where does it leave us?" and "where do we go from here?"

THERE is no doubt the President has known for a long time that the end must come soon, insofar as NRA is concerned. His hope at the outset was that it might serve as a temporary means of adjustment; that once the recovery snowball was started by artificial means, a natural and orderly means of returning the nation to a stabilized basis, would be forthcoming.

But it didn't come. Some are of the opinion that the supreme court's decision invalidating the farm mortgage moratorium act may be the signal for Big Business to reenter the field of investment and that the gradual break-up of NRA and other regulatory measures may be the very stimulant that will throw this country into high gear.

UNLIKE many, we do not believe even a United States supreme court decision means the political death of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Right or wrong he took the only means at his command to save the nation from disaster, from within and without. He knew it was a case of attempting to raise ourselves by our own bootstraps. He must have known it was economically unsound, that at best it would provide only momentary relief. But he got action and constitution or no constitution, he gave us something to try for instead of merely something to cry for.

In spite of the wreckage about him the President has built a house that will stand the assault of politicians and courts. His Civilian Conservation Camps alone are worth the price of his admission to the Presidency. His public works program has given us all a new consciousness of our resources and how best they may be employed for the public good.

Where do we go from here? We don't know. But we do know we are farther on the upgrade than we were before Franklin D. Roosevelt became President.

If Huey keeps his promise to make us all kings, it may be possible to interest Miss Hutton in a "Wed-Americans-First" program.

THE GREAT UNTEACHABLE

IN Seattle, the school board has been asked to install classes in marriage for children. One of life's little ironies probably would result in the classes being taught by teachers who had been divorced a couple of times, or else by old maids.

Marriage has been cussed and discussed, boosted and knocked, taken apart, psychoanalyzed, and had more reams written about it than any other subject. And still nobody knows very much about it. It's like learning to swim: The best way is just to leap in and do your best.

Some folks say it's a fifty-fifty proposition; others that it works best with one strong character running the show and the other half of the skit saying: "Yessir!"—or, much more probably, "Yes, Ma'am!" According to some theorists, a man and his wife should have the same tastes; according to others, they should have varying tastes—agreeing, however, about ashes on the parlor rug and mothers-in-law.

Marriage is a gamble, a sacrament, a lottery, an economic device, a trap, an institution or something you get into during a weak moment, depending upon who is telling you about it.

But as for teaching it! Let the school board stick to the binomial theorem and the minor Greek poets. They're easier to understand.

Probably the most feared person among the professional traders of Wall Street today is the youthful looking Joseph P. Kennedy, head man of the New Deal's securities commission. He has been a heavy speculator himself and knows all the answers.

He can spot any of the tricks by a mere glance at the prospectus. Kennedy in his early 40's, a brick-top, a Bostonian and save for horn-rimmed glasses might be taken for a football coach. He has none of the earmarks of the financier, yet is one of the shrewdest.

Several times a millionaire, he probably spends his government salary and more in telephone calls. He was planning to retire and relax when called to the new post. Instead, he is working 12 hours daily, harder indeed than ever before in a busy life.

He is the father of nine, a veritable range of human stair steps, and whatever of hours he has are devoted to his large family. It has long been his custom to take those old enough to a matinee every Saturday. He has homes in Washington, Boston, New York and Palm Beach.

Nina Wilcox Putnam, the writer, is in splendid health now and only recently did even her intimates know she spent one year in a home-made tuberculosis cure atop an apartment house in which she resided. She lived constantly in the open, but almost every evening would appear at little dinners, in her apartment, for friends. The life of the party!

Erskine Gwynne has chucked the most auspicious of the champagne salesmanship jobs and buckled down to several magazine writing assignments. The wine-makers had hoped to capitalize Gwynne's Vanderbiltish background as an introductory wedge for their fizzwater in the smarter boudoirs. Gwynne, cherubic, silken voiced blond but a terror in a scrap, was long an American correspondent in Paris and launched a successful weekly of chit-chat there called The Boulevardier. The Yankee evacuation shelved it.

Brooklyn, although it should be for sheer serenity, has never been a haven for writers. Many who began there soon migrated to Greenwich Village, Westport, Conn., or sundry cultural focal points. The sole exception I know among modern scribblers is the prolific and talented Faith Baldwin, who lives in a corner house in the Bensonhurst section.

Bensonhurst, incidentally, recalls by first contact with that higgledy jargon that is strictly Brooklynese—the jargon that calls oil, joint, jern and Cuba Cuber. My initial month in town I was sent by a magazine to interview a Japanese writer with a rippling waterfall name, Owana, Ottawa, and boarded an elevated at Brooklyn Bridge. A few steps out I confided to the guard I wanted to get off at 33d street in Bensonhurst. "I getcha," he replied. "Thoitly thoid in Benson hoist."

Essayists have bespoke the bright bourgeoisie flair of Brooklyn's Fulton street. It has the clang and gusto of those hodgepodge back-drops in the Hoyt comedies. There is Schmalz, the long white-coated Delicatessen. O'Ryan's saloon. Patsy's Beauty Salon. Fred, Your Pal and Drug-gist. Kip Wong, the laundryman who sits out front on a starch box gossiping and smoking his long-stemmed thimble pipe. I have a girl who made me weep as never before in the theater. It was a small bit in a play called "The Noose!" and elevated her to stage and screen stardom. The world knows her now as Barbara Stan- wayck.

And they had to lead me out at the smelly line in "Way Down East" when the betrayed victim of the city chap crept home to fix a dinner for her stern old Dad. Seeing her he threw open the door to the storm and roared: "Out of my house, I'll have no dinner of your gittin'!"

EMBARRASSING MOMENT

There is nothing more humiliating to an adult than to be guilty of a social error. The sting remains long after the occasion is past, and the memory of the laughter or half-concealed smiles of those present may haunt him the rest of his life.

Children are supposed to be impervious to such feelings. Tommy comes into the room to greet his mother's guests, serenely unconscious of the fact that there is a large hole in the seat of his pants. Were he an adult no comment would be made unless he were an intimate friend.

But Tommy is on very formal terms with everyone present. He is not of the group and feels it. He has on his best manners, and is making every effort to act as if he were a formal dinner guest. He is very small but he runs to his mother and is comforted; but if he is eight or ten, or worse still, 12 or 13, there is no refuge for him. He must go through the ordeal with the best face he can put on it.

He hates the whole crowd, even his mother who introduced him to it. Never does he want to meet again one of the witnesses of his humiliation. For days he feels everyone's eyes upon him, and is awkward and self-conscious wherever he goes.

Such situations are inevitable in children's lives. There is always some tactless adult who does not realize the value which children place on their dignity. If the mother is quick she can sometimes save the situation. Perhaps she can take the blame for not putting in a patch, or she remembers an episode of the same kind in someone else's youth, which distracts attention from the boy. At least she must not join in the merriment, but must cover the boy's humiliation and understand his embarrassment.

Feeling Well Today?

Minor Foot Deformities: II

The Hindoos are credited with the saying that he who wears shoes finds the world carpeted with leather. But this isn't all to the good, for, as one British medical authority has stated, "encasing the foot in a stiff covering is one of the penalties of civilization."

The result is that almost invariably the foot is robbed of free play and in time becomes stiffened, while not infrequently other disabilities of a more serious and painful nature develop.

Most people because of the shoes worn have their feet stiffened in what is termed an intermediate position. From this position they may rise or fall to a slight extent. Such feet are now considered normal. The abnormal ones are the so-called flat feet. However, according to the authority quoted, "people do not suffer from flat-foot but from the inability to flatten their feet."

This apparent contradictory statement simply means that by virtue of present-day foot habits, we deprive the foot of its elasticity and limit its movement. The result is either a stiffened, high-arched foot which does not yield to stress, or a flattened foot which cannot be lifted by muscular contraction.

The remedy urged is exercise and forcible manipulation. The forcible manipulation is designed to break up adhesions, i.e., to loosen ligaments and to "lumber up" the joints. The exercise serves to re-educate the foot in its normal activity, and to strengthen it.

Needless to say, any radical or forcible manipulation of the bones of the foot should be undertaken only by one who knows what it is all about. In other words, forcible manipulation is a medical-orthopedic procedure. However, bare-foot walking and simple foot exercises are easily self-administered and are beneficial alike for the stiffened foot and fallen arches.

What Other Editors Think

SHARE THE WEALTH
(Anaheim Bulletin)

There is nothing new about the share-the-wealth plan.

In the sixth century there lived at Nishapur, Persia, a priest named Mazdak. He taught, among other things, that all men are equal, and that the nobles of Persia ought to give up their luxury and divide their wealth with the rest of the citizens. He would not even allow anyone to retain $4,000,000.

Going still farther, he taught free love. King Kobad, who was having trouble with the nobility, the big magnates, encouraged Mazdak for political purposes. So the nobles and the priests of Zoroaster organized a revolution, forced Kobad off the throne, and refused to allow him to return to it until he had promised to have nothing more to do with Mazdak and his doctrines.

Kobad was a good politician, and he saw that he had overplayed his hand. He climbed back on the throne, and in the year 528 the crown prince, Chosroes, an orthodox Zoroastrian, led out the army and massacred Mazdak and his followers. Thus the Persian share-the-wealth-and-the-women plan ended sadly.
